SENATE PASSES RELIEF BILL

Lausanne Pact Is Signed By European Nations

MACDONALD IS FIRST TO SIGN TREATY

Refers to Future Settlement With U. S. During Extemporaneous Speech

OLD SEAL IS USED

Chancellor Von Papen Signs For Germany as Does Finance Commissioner

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, July 9.—(UP)—The Lausanne treaty ending Germany's World War reparations payments was signed today, with Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain declaring "four agreements must have response elsewhere."

It provides that Germany pay in one lump sum one cent for every dollar demanded by the victorious allies—if she can sell the bonds to raise the money.

Collections and payment of inter-European war debts was declared suspended until ratification of the treaty.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain was the first statesman to sign. As president of the conference, he declared the treaty open to signature, walked around a square formed by tables, and signed the document which lay on a translators' table in the center of the square.

The other delegates approached and signed.

Chancellor Franz Von Papen, Foreign Minister Baron Constantine von Neurath, and Finance Minister Count Lutz Schwerin von Krosigk signed for the Germans.

MacDonald referred directly to a future settlement with the United States in an extemporaneous speech.

"Our agreements must have response elsewhere," he said. "We have already said that any agreement we reach must be placed in a world framework."

"It is no good collecting sums from one government, or any country, which disturbs world trade," MacDonald said. "The United States, the country most fitted to withstand economic shocks, is now as severely hit as any European country."

"We have opened a new book. There are no more reparations. Those great payments, sums which represented no transfer of goods, have not been a punishment to one nation but an affliction to all," the prime minister said.

MacDonald announced after the signing that the commissions on non-German reparations and central European problems would begin work after the end of the reparations conference.

The seal used on the treaty was first used Dec. 7, 1925, to seal a treaty between Bern, Fribourg and Lausanne, MacDonald said.

"We are wasting money, we are throwing it into armaments," the prime minister continued. "If we could only pluck fear from our hearts, we could reduce and reduce. It is a moral as well as a material issue."

MacDonald concluded by appealing for relief of European tension and greater friendship among nations, especially between France and Germany.

Hutton Case Is Given To Jury Today

Deliberations Started at 9:45 a. m. After Judge Gives Instructions

BULLETIN

LOS ANGELES, July 9.—(UP)—Judge Lester Roth announced today after charging the St. Pierre-Hutton $200,000 breach of promise suit jury that he would dismiss the jury at 9 p. m. tonight unless a verdict was reached.

LOS ANGELES, July 9.—(UP)—The Hutton-St. Pierre $200,000 breach of promise suit was placed in the hands of a superior court jury here today by Judge Lester W. Roth.

After 20 minutes of instructions by Judge Roth, the jury of middle-aged men and women retired to decide if David L. (Iron Man) Hutton, husband of Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, betrayed Myrtle St. Pierre, attractive Pasadena nurse, under promise of marriage.

The deliberations started at 9:45 a. m., Pacific standard time.

Hutton and Mrs. St. Pierre followed with anxious eyes the jury's march from the courtroom. The latter appeared more refreshed than at any period during the three weeks' trial at which she fainted or became hysterical six times at critical moments of sensational testimony.

Hutton denied previous reports that he had received threatening messages during the night, but Roy Watkins, Angeles Temple private detective, said that he had been suspicious of automobiles which passed the Watkins residence at an early hour.

Willard Andrews, associate defense counsel, declared that he had been the recipient of threatening calls during the night.

Guards were posted in the courtroom as Judge Roth read his instructions. There was no disturbance of any sort.

ORDER TIJUANA BORDER TO REMAIN OPEN TO MIDNIGHT

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 9.—(UP)—The American-Mexican border at Tijuana and Mexicali, California ports, will remain open until midnight, effective today, it was announced here by Collector of Customs William Ellison.

Ellison said Secretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills signed an order to keep the border points open at the request of the Mexican government.

The order, it was said, was designed "to promote public necessity, convenience and efficiency."

Hitherto the Tijuana border has closed at 6 p. m. and the Mexicali post at 9 p. m.

Beats Penn Club Eight By One Foot

Golden Bears to Represent United States Against Other Nations

WORCESTER, MASS., July 9.—(UP)—The University of California varsity crew today became United States representative in the eight-oared rowing event of the Olympics by defeating the stout hearted Penn A. C. boat load in the final heat of the elimination races.

California won by the narrowest margin, only one foot separating their prowess as they swept across the finish line.

The Pacific coast dream of a "California crew for California's Olympics" came true.

More than 50,000 persons crowded the Shrewsbury and Worcester banks of Lake Quinsigamond to see the fast western entry bang across the finish line a victor.

California's time was 6:06 and the Penn A. C. boat was caught at 8:06.2.

California's time established a new record.

Lake Quinsigamond, scene of a greater regatta, never saw a faster crew than that of today. As the two crews swung into the home stretch, California, which had led all the time from the stake boats, was half a length in the lead.

At this point the Pennsylvania coxswain called upon his men for a final drive and the club moved up to a burning 42. Foot by foot they crept ahead until the crews were on even terms. Fifty yards from the finish line, Penn went in front by a quarter of a length.

Penn held this advantage until 25 yards from the end when the Bears, now rowing with a tremendous, water flogging stroke, unleashed a last second spurt. Two yards from the finish mark, the California shell slid out in front. One more stroke and it was over and California had won by one-fifth of a second.

HANFORD, Cal., July 8.—(UP)—Under a "come and get it policy," milk sold here today for 5 cents a quart as distributors moved to bring down the price of the commodity.

The policy, originated by one dairy, provided that customers must bring their own containers.

The delivered price of milk was 10 cents a quart.

GO TO WHITE HOUSE NEXT

Upper House Gives Approval Despite Fact That President Will Veto It

VOTE IS 43 TO 31

Debate on Bill Lasts Less Than Half Hour—Hoover Will Get It Monday

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(UP)—The senate finally approved the $2,122,000,000 unemployment relief bill today, starting it on its way to the White House and an inevitable veto.

Senate approval came after Democrats sought vainly to persuade Speaker Garner to abandon his relief feud with President Hoover. The speaker rejected all compromise proposals.

The vote was 43 to 31.

The bill provides $300,000,000 for relief loans to states on certification of need by governors, $1,500,000,000 for self liquidating and private loans by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, $132,000,000 for roads and $190,000,000 for other public works, to be undertaken when the money is available to the treasury or can be borrowed at reasonable terms.

The measure cannot reach Mr. Hoover until Monday. The house is in recess over the week-end, and the final draft of the bill must be signed by the speaker with the house in session and by the vice president before it can be sent to the white house.

Democrats and insurgents combined with a scattering of republicans, to pass the relief measure on which Speaker Garner and the president have been deadlocked for weeks. Garner has insisted that private loans be retained and Mr. Hoover has been equally firm in demanding their elimination.

Debate lasted less than an hour and a half.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—The Reconstruction Finance Corporation has authorized loans aggregating $1,054,814,486 to 4196 institutions since it started operations on February 2, last.

This became known today when the corporation made public its report covering from February 2 through June 30.

The report shows that 3600 banks and trust companies received $642,789,313, of which $27,339,350 went to aid reorganizing or liquidating 316 closed banks.

A total of $52,484,923 was loaned to 418 building and loan associations. Sixty-three insurance companies got $62,465,509.

Other loans went to eight agricultural credit corporations, totaling $222,440; five joint stock land banks, $1,270,000; ten five-stock credit corporations, $6,594,586; fifty-one mortgage loan companies, $73,900,000; three credit unions, $405,000, and thirty-eight railroads, $313,882,724.

The corporation has allocated $85,000,000 to the Secretary of Agriculture for crop loans and has agreed to make loans up to $30,000,000.

WORLD FLIERS PREPARE PLANE FOR SHIPMENT

Mattern and Griffin Will Arrive in Moscow Sunday Enroute Home

BORISOV, U. S. S. R., July 9.—(UP)—Two bitterly disappointed American aviators removed their airplane today from a peat bog, the end of their attempt to establish a new world flight record and prepared to ship the machine back to the United States.

The Americans, James Mattern and Bennett Griffin, planned to continue to Moscow by train and arrive there Sunday morning.

Mattern and Griffin were in good health, practically unscathed after making a forced landing in which their plane was wrecked.

"We are alive and healthy," the fliers said in a message to the United Press.

200 VETERANS IN WASHINGTON DESERT ARMY

Two Hundred Others Apply for Railroad Tickets to Their Homes

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(UP)—Two hundred members of the bonus expeditionary force were riding homeward today on railroad tickets provided by the Government.

Authorities fervently hoped that it was the beginning of a general exodus. But the vast majority of the 15,000 bonus marchers were still clinging to their rickety huts and billets, still professing determination to continue the siege of Washington until the Government changes its mind and pays the bonus or gives them work.

Commander-in-Chief Walter W. Waters sent word to all regimental commanders to try to hold their forces in line and to combat any breakdown of morale that might be caused by the departures.

NO LIFE IS FOUND ABOARD SUBMARINE

ABOARD WARSHIP AILETTE, OFF CHERBOURG, July 9.—(UP)—The sunken submarine Pomethoe, which carried 63 men to their death while on test cruise, was found today lying in a mudhole 40 fathoms down.

The craft sank Thursday with only seven members of the crew escaping. They were on deck when the big new submarine dropped suddenly under the water, carrying the crew to their deaths.

A diver who has been working on the gold recovery project from the steamer Artiglio, went down today to find what had happened to the big submarine. While hundreds of navy men, technicians and others stood anxiously on the decks of a dozen craft, the diver put on a bell uniform and slipped into the water.

Forty fathoms down he found the vessel, sunken into the mudhole. There was no trace of life.

HARLAN, Ky., July 9.—(UP)—A charge of dynamite today destroyed the automobile of C. C. Cawood, stormy figure in Harlan county's labor troubles, and broke windows in the Cawood home near where the car was parked.

There was no clue to the persons who planted the dynamite. Sheriff John Henry Blair said he believed it traceable to Cawood's interest in a recent injunction proceedings.

MAN RESEMBLING ROGERS IS CLEARED

FRESNO, July 9.—(UP)—Fred Lawler, "the man who looks like Will Rogers," was free of burglary charges today.

INDIANA GOVERNOR WILL SIGN REPEAL

INDIANAPOLIS, July 9.—(UP)—Gov. Harry G. Leslie, elected on a dry platform in 1928 as executive of what had been considered one of the staunchest of "dry" states, is prepared to sign a bill repealing the state's prohibition enforcement act, the United Press learned today.

The reason for the governor's reversal was said to be fear that a fight in a special session of the state legislature would endanger relief legislation.

In state conventions recently both Democrats and Republicans made repeal of the enforcement act a plank in their platforms. The governor is said to feel that elimination of the state dry law is inevitable and that the unanimity of expression releases him and his party from the dry pledge made four years ago.

WILL PRESS SUIT AGAINST ACTRESS

OAKLAND, July 9.—(UP)—The bland admission of Claire Windsor, blonde actress, that she "did love" Alfred C. Read Jr., young San Francisco broker, will not halt Mrs. Read's $100,000 allegation of affections suit against the actress.

After announcing that he had obtained Miss Windsor's admission of love in a deposition, Roy Hudson, attorney for Mrs. Read, announced today the suit would be pressed.

"I was very fond of Mr. Read, in fact, you might say I loved him," Hudson quoted Miss Windsor as saying. "But I had no idea I was coming between him and his wife."

$12,000 RANSOM IS PAID TO KIDNAPERS

ST. PAUL, July 9.—(UP)—Chief of Police Thomas E. Dahill today said that $12,000 ransom was paid for the return of Haskell Bohn, 20, recently released by kidnapers after being held for a week.

The money was thrown from a speeding automobile on Superior boulevard west of Minneapolis, Dahill said. Police in every part of the northwest have been given the numbers of bills which made up the ransom payment, Dahill said.

PEACH GROWERS TO ARRANGE FINANCES

FRESNO, Cal., July 9.—(UP)—Negotiations to finance crops of the California Peach and Fig Growers' association were to be opened in San Francisco today between officials of the association and D. F. Hagelberg, California representative of the Federal Farm board.

The association, it was understood, will seek total loans of $450,000, including commodity loans of about $150,000 and $300,000 advance on 1932 crops.

WILL ROGERS SAYS:

MULE SHOE, Tex., July 9. (To the Editor of The Register.)—Down here at the Mashed O. My old friends, the Halls' ranch, branding thousands of calves. I been roping at 'em all day and they just look around and say, go on comedian and do your stuff on the stage, but don't try a real cowboy's racket. I'll catch one of the little rascals yet if I have to bribe him. Say I been so interested in real things I just quit reading the papers. What is Congress doing and did Aimee's husband establish his good name? A rancher just rode out to the round-up and said the happy warrior had decided to leave the war and be happy again. Did you know that hogs went up two dollars a hundred while the two conventions were in session? Make your own joke.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

NATION'S LIBERALS MEET IN CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, July 9.—(UP)—A movement for the formation of a united "third party" with a progressive platform gathered strength today as the country's leading liberals met for the opening session of the convention of the League for Independent Political Action.

Proponents argued that such a party would gather support from dissatisfied elements in the two major parties who believe the established organizations lack economic foresight. It would also attract those persons who have turned from the major parties but hesitate to commit themselves to either socialism or communism because of their radical programs, it was declared.

Opposition was expressed by several leaders who said the country was not ready for a new third party.

ATTACKER OF GIRL GETS NINETY YEARS

LOS ANGELES, July 9.—(UP)—Frederick J. Byrnes today was sentenced to a total of 90 years in Folsom penitentiary for attacks on Patricia Park, 23-year-old stenographer, alleged to have been abducted from a night club in the Negro section.

Superior Judge Henry M. Willis sentenced Byrnes to serve one to 25 years on one count of kidnapping, and to terms of "not more than 50 years" and "not more than 15 years" on two statutory counts. Then he sentenced Byrnes to six months in the county jail for simultaneous assault. The sentences were ordered to run concurrently.

FLOODS IN NOGALES CAUSE HUGE LOSS

NOGALES, Ariz., July 9.—(UP)—Residents of Nogales, Ariz., and its neighbor, Nogales, Sonora, Mex., surveyed damage estimated at thousands of dollars today following a flood caused by torrential rains in the mountain watershed of Sonora.

Police forces of the two cities were combined to prevent looting in the damaged districts. A wall of water swept between three and four feet deep across the arroyo which extends through the central section of both cities, demolishing Adobe houses in Nogales, Sonora, inundating nearly all business houses and overturning heavy automobiles.

Damage was chiefly confined to the merchandise of stores, no business of importance escaping the flood waters.

OPPOSE APPOINTING OF HARVARD PROF

BOSTON, July 8.—(UP)—Eventual approval by the executive council of Governor Ely's appointment of Felix Frankfurter, Harvard law school professor, to the Massachusetts supreme court bench is considered certain, though opponents may be given a chance to state their case at a public hearing.

The council has deferred action on the appointment until next Wednesday, and before that time Governor Ely is expected to decide whether a public hearing should be held.

Frankfurter has the endorsement of numerous prominent men, including Justice Brandeis and former Justice Holmes of the U. S. supreme court. As a judge he would have their "liberal" leanings, it is thought.

PERU CITY SEIZED BY REBEL FORCES

LIMA, Peru, July 9.—(UP)—The government rushed land, sea, and air forces to northern Peru today to quell a Communist and leftist party revolt and regain possession of the important city of Trujillo, held by the rebels.

The cruiser Almirante Grau was ordered to transport troops to Salaverry, connected by rail with Trujillo. Naval airplanes were sent from here to Salaverry to participate in a concentrated drive against the traitors.

Strict martial law was enforced throughout the republic. Lima was calm and no disturbances were reported outside of the Trujillo area.

ISSUE WARNING OF FIGHT ON OF UNEMPLOYED LAWLESSNESS GROUP CHANGED

A warning issued by the Ku Klux Klan declaring war against gangsters and lawlessness and addressed to "Whom It May Concern," appeared in Santa Ana today, asserting that unless law enforcement officers make an effort immediately to stamp out lawlessness they would be "unmasked."

Police officers here know nothing of the circulars when asked about them. The warning, issued on white paper with a thick black border is headed: "Ku Klux Klan WARNING!" Its text reads:

"Realizing the incontestable truth, that organized crime has openly defied our laws, made sport of our courts and challenged the orderly peace of the nation, we, the members of the Ku Klux Klan, accept the challenge.

"Not only will we unitedly stand in defense of law and order, but we invite all American born Protestants to join us in a mighty drive to free America, once and for all, from alien rule and leadership.

"Remember—The Klan was organized to support Law and Order. Silently we have prepared and are making time awaiting the hour. THE GANGSTER and his defenders MUST GO.

"COME ON, PROTESTANT AMERICA—WAKE UP—JOIN WITH THE KLAN—in the mightiest drive in history. CRIME MUST BE CONTROLLED. OUR LAWS CAN AND MUST BE OBSERVED.

"LAW ENFORCEMENT OFFICERS—TAKE NOTICE! Unless an effort is immediately made to stay the wave of lawlessness—now sweeping the city, you will be mercilessly unmasked. No matter who you are—remember, there will be no compromise with crime."

President Hoover signed an emergency bill appropriating $100,000 for transportation of the veterans, the money to be charged against their bonus certificates which become payable in 1945.

Today 200 men had been given tickets at a special rate of a penny a mile and 75 cents a day for food and put aboard trains. About 200 additional applications awaited approval.

A canvass by the United Press of all consequential bonus camps disclosed thousands to be contemptuous of the Government's loan offered thus far and determined to settle in Washington until employment or money is furnished them.

Waters said he would not interfere with anyone desirous of leaving.

"The few that will leave probably will have quit sooner or later anyhow," he said.

He said, however, that the food situation was very grave and that they would have to have more food or money by tonight. He was not sure where this was to be had. He thought trips he will take Monday and Tuesday to Camden and Hoboken, N. J., might yield something. A radio appeal from Washington also has been arranged.

OFFICE SEEKER URGES REFORMS IN GOVERNMENT

A platform calling for "abolishment of the supervisory luxury we have indulged in" and suggesting many reforms in governmental practice in Orange county was announced today by B. T. Dowden in the formal statement of his candidacy for supervisor from the first district.

The platform calls for breaking up the interlocking relationships in the court house; elimination of married women whose husbands are making a salary sufficient to support them, from the county payrolls and giving these jobs to heads of families who are in need of work.

Reduction of taxes and curtailment of expenditure is another plank in the platform which also calls for securing for the district a fair share of the state gasoline tax fund.

Dowden also suggests the use of several hundred acres of land owned by the county and located near the Eddie Martin airport for the benefit of the poor and needy.

The question of making purchases of supplies for the county at prices other than the lowest bids is also raised in the platform, and the suggestion is made that investigations of certain county institutions should be made.

Office holders, it is asserted by the candidate, should be the servants of the people and not the dictators.

Mr. and Mrs. Piegel are both employed in Fullerton and are now busily engaged in establishing their new home on West Maple street in that city. Both of them formerly graduated from the Fullerton Union high school.

DEPRESSION—NO JAIL

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—Martin Cokley, negro, was in court on a charge of cussing a negro, Nora Smilton. No two witnesses told the same story, so George W. McDade, attorney, took the case into his hands. He made the plea that a jail sentence would "further burden taxpayers during the depression." The jury speedily brought in a verdict of not guilty.

T. F. TEDFORD SERVICES SET FOR MONDAY

Funeral services for T. Frank Tedford, 71, a resident of Orange county for more than 60 years, who died at his home at 272 South Main street, Orange, at 1:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon will be held at the Smith and Tutthill funeral parlors at 10 a. m. Monday. Interment will be made in Fairhaven cemetery.

Tedford committed suicide by swallowing a quantity of strychnine Coroner Earl Abbey said today. His body was found on a bed at his home by members of his family, who had been at the beach. He had been dead several hours when they returned, it was reported.

A note, found near the body, indicated that financial worries had led Tedford to take his life. The note was addressed to his wife.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Helen M. Tedford, two daughters, Edith and Dora Tedford, both of whom live at home, two brothers, W. R. Tedford, San Jose, and George Tedford, of Los Angeles and Charles L. Tedford, Seattle; three sisters, Mrs. J. E. Young, San Francisco; Mrs. C. R. ESTATE MATTER RECALLS OLD MURDER CASE

After more than two years, the ghosts of the "Dresden Doll," Mrs. Adele Ritchie Post and her intimate woman friend, the beautiful Doris Murray Palmer, whom she murdered at Laguna Beach, yesterday flitted through department one of superior court. Attorneys for Mrs. Post, estranged wife of Guy Bates Post, the actor, and Mrs. Ella Fultz, mother of Mrs. Post, attired a dispute over Mrs. Post's estate before Superior Judge H. G. Ames.

The case was revived here through the petition of Mrs. Fultz, who lives in Connecticut, to accept checks amounting to $840 on the sale of a portion of the estate in Connecticut. Moresby White, Laguna Beach attorney who defended Mrs. Post at what was termed her posthumous trial for murder, had refused to accept the checks from Leslie Kimmell, another Laguna Beach attorney, on the grounds that he objected to the form of receipt demanded by Kimmell.

Acceptance of the checks was urged by Mrs. Fultz in order to take up a $820 deficit and close the estate.

Mrs. Post, the "Dresden Doll," murdered her intimate friend, Mrs. Palmer, April 24, 1930, in the Palmer cottage at Laguna Beach. After driving about Laguna Beach for several hours Mrs. Post returned to the cottage and after applying rouge to the lips and cheeks of her dead friend and rearranging her disarrayed hair she ended her own life with the same gun she had used to slay Mrs. Palmer whose friendship she feared she was losing.

they left Berlin for Moscow and disappeared completely.

Mattern and Griffin said that when trouble developed in the steering apparatus, they decided to land on the outskirts of Borisov, repair their machine, then continue. At that time they were over 10 hours ahead of the round-the-world flight record held by Wiley Post and Harold Gatty.

The fliers said there appeared to be plenty of space for a forced landing on the edge of the town of 25,000 persons. They were flying at night and in bad weather, however.

They brought their machine down easily on what appeared to be a level surface, but which was a peat bog. The "Century of Progress" sunk its wheels quickly in the swamp, came to an abrupt halt, and nosed over with a crash.

SOCIAL JUSTICE TO BE SUBJECT OF DISCUSSION

W. Maxwell Burke, prominent Santa Ana attorney and member of the school board, will be the featured speaker at the meeting of the Open Forum class which will be held at the First M. E. church at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning. It was announced today.

The address, which is entitled "Parties Without Candidates," will be broadcast from KREK. Following the address, the audience will be given an opportunity to ask the speaker questions.

Points which will be stressed by the speaker in his lecture are as follows:

1. What effective method has the church to accomplish social justice?

2. Can we hope from either of the present political parties any progress in actual social betterment?

3. What would be the effect of an organized sentiment for social justice upon the candidates of the parties?

4. Would the church welcome an organization, non-political and non-sectarian, which would include liberal and progressive sentiment for social justice in all its varied parts?

5. Isn't it a fact that civilization and progress are moving around the church rather than through it? And isn't it a function of the church to lead in all matters of social and moral welfare?

Special music will also be a feature of the meeting.

The complaint was made by Sam Miller who stated that the defendants were in the Olympic cafe using abusive language, swearing and threatening to fight in the presence of women. The defendants plead not guilty and demanded a trial by jury.

Therefore you will care most for what you do for the God into whose keeping you have given your dear one. You will strive to be worthy of the loving companionship which you have given to him. God will give you strength to do your duty well.

Hospital attendants said he suffered a concussion of the brain, but did not believe the skull was broken.

Gosorth reported that he was struck by a man named Howard Craemer, also of Buena Park, the hospital reported. No report of the incident has been filed with authorities here.

turned over to the county of Orange from the state from 1920 to April, 1932, it $2,914,000, of which, according to the percentage of automobile registrations, the auto owners within the city of Santa Ana have paid 27 1/2 per cent, or in other words, over $800,000, of which, up to the present time, the city has received only $56,000 or approximately seven per cent of the amount actually paid by the owners of vehicles within the city.

"If this money is received in a large enough amount to pay interest and principal on these various projects, it will not be necessary to levy a special tax for this purpose."

THREE SUBMIT BIDS ON P. O. BRANCH OFFICE

Three Santa Ana firms entered bids for the location of a contract station, which is a branch of the post office. It was learned today when Postmaster Terry E. Stephenson opened bids for the station.

Stein's Stationery store, located near Broadway and Fourth on Fourth street, the DuBois Furniture store at Third and Sycamore street, and the Grand Central Market, through the Santa Ana Development company, were the firms that desire the contract station.

Du Bois and the development company entered bids for the location of the station at $1 a year while Stein's store bid $50 a year. The amounts of the bids are relatively unimportant, however, according to Stephenson.

Postmaster Stephenson will draw a map showing the location of the three places which the information contained in the bids, will be forwarded to postal authorities at Washington, D. C. The government may decide to place stations in more than one place, the postmaster said, as the government has such small expense involved.

In case authorities at Washington decide that the matter of where the contract station should be located should be investigated, a postal investigator will perform the task. The local postmaster may be asked to make a recommendation as to where the station should be located.

Merchants who operate the contract stations must furnish the equipment for the office and the clerical work. Branch offices must carry regular post office supplies, such as stamps, envelopes, etc. The offices are empowered to write money orders, register mail and take in parcel post and C. O. D. packages.

EXPECT ARREST OF 'FIREBUG' IN BREA SHORTLY

Arrest of the incendiaryist who has made two unsuccessful attempts to destroy Brea hotel in Brea is expected within a few days by authorities working on the case, it was stated today.

Boyd Sleeper, fire marshal, said today that the entire Brea water system had been cut off shortly before the "firebug" placed kerosene soaked rags and burlap in the rear of the hotel.

When Brea firemen, in response to an alarm turned in by James McFarland, a roomer at the hotel, arrived at the scene, they found that they had only 35 pounds pressure. However, through the use of their pump they increased the pressure and were able to extinguish the flames before the water supply gave out.

The property is owned by a Los Angeles man and is under lease to L. C. Sharpe, who has operated a second hand furniture store in the lower floor. Sharpe is moving out at once, it is understood.

The first attempt took place last week when McFarland smelled smoke and discovered a room in the front part of the hotel in flames.

YEARLY REPORT SHOWS EXTENT CONSERVATION

Election of officers and the filing of the president's annual report featured the annual meeting of the Water Conservation association held in its office in Riverside yesterday.

Francis Cuttle was re-elected president of the association. C. J. Kettering was named secretary-treasurer and C. S. Wilson was chosen superintendent.

WOMAN ENDS LIFE AT BEACH ON BIRTHDAY

Apparently deliberately waiting until after midnight in order that she might die on her 45th birthday anniversary, Mrs. Anna Darling Combs, wife of St. Elmo Combs, of 509 Westmoreland drive, Los Angeles, jumped into the ocean at Laguna Beach this morning. Her watch had stopped at 12:05 o'clock.

Because a white sediment was noticed in an empty milk bottle in her car in Heisler park, Coroner Earl Abbey ordered an autopsy performed at the Laguna Beach Funeral home this morning.

The woman's husband revealed today that his wife had been suffering from mental trouble for the past three years and several times had threatened to commit suicide.

The body of Mrs. Combs was found floating in the ocean off Rock rock, off the estate of Florence Lowe Barnes, shortly after dawn this morning by Capt. Jack Tubbs of the fishing boat "J. B."

The body was fully clothed, even to gloves. On the left hand was a platinum wedding ring and the inscription on the ring, "Saint to Anna, June 5, 1925," coupled with the discovery of car keys in a pocket of the woman's suit, led to her identification.

Police Chief Abe Johnson started a search for the woman's car and found it in Heisler park, locked. The registration certificate in the machine carried the name of the suicide's husband.

Combs revealed that his wife had disappeared yesterday and that he had conducted an all night search for her.

Presence of the sediment in the milk bottle would indicate that the woman had taken poison before jumping into the water, police said. Authorities believe that Mrs. Combs had waited until her watch showed it was past midnight, in order to carry out a wish to end her life on her birthday, the watch stopping when her body hit the water.

PROGRAM FOR JOHN BROWN TO CHURCH MEET HOLD SERVICES IS ANNOUNCED IN FULLERTON

Under the direction of the Rev. E. Burch, former Anaheim pastor who is now assembly president of the California Conference of the Evangelical church, plans were completed today to care for a large number of delegates to the summer assembly of the conference which opens tomorrow at the Evangelical assembly grounds at North Bristol and West Fairhaven streets, Santa Ana.

The Rev. E. W. Mats of Santa Ana, conference director of religious education and assembly superintendent, is a member of the program committee.

The conference opens officially tomorrow and will close the following Sunday. The assembly includes a joint convention of the Woman's Missionary society, Sunday schools, Evangelical leagues, school of leadership training and Bible conference. Evangelistic services and mass meetings will be held every evening and Sundays.

At 6:45 o'clock Monday morning the assembly will be opened by the Rev. G. G. Schmidt of Glendale, who will direct the morning watch service. Following breakfast, delegates will register. The first sermon of the day will be given by the Rev. Philip Thomas of Los Angeles after the dinner hour. A "get acquainted" movement will be in order of the day from 3:30 p. m. until supper time. The Young People's vespers service which precedes the evening worship will be led by the Rev. Everett Schneider of Anaheim. "Sowing and Reaping" is the title of a sermon which will be delivered in the evening by the Rev. E. N. Himmel, assembly speaker.

REV. BUCHANAN WILL ADDRESS UNION SERVICE

Santa Ana churches will unite tomorrow evening in a service at the First Baptist church, with the Rev. Walter Scott Buchanan, of the First Christian church as the preacher. The Rev. Mr. Buchanan has announced as his sermon theme, "The Voice."

The chorus choir of the Baptist church, directed by Mrs. Charles Nalle, will furnish music. There will be a solo number by Harold Gorton, and an anthem by the chorus, "Repent Ye," by Scott. Verne Harrison is at the organ.

The Ministerial association, of which the Rev. O. W. Reinius is president, extends a general invitation to the public to attend and enjoy this united service.

Evangelist John Brown, who spent several months holding revival meetings in Orange county last year, under the auspices of the Laymen's Association of Orange County, has been secured to start another series in Fullerton beginning July 31, it was announced today by the association committee.

The meetings are for the whole of Northern Orange county. Churches of Fullerton, Anaheim, Garden Grove, La Habra, Placentia, Buena Park, Brea and Whittier have been invited to join in the union revival campaign, according to T. K. Gowen.

Brown started a series of meetings in the laymen's tabernacle, which is now erected on West Commonwealth avenue, Fullerton, just north of the Commonwealth park, last year, and the meetings continued throughout many months, with the tabernacle being moved from one city to another.

Beginning tomorrow and continuing through July until Brown starts his campaign, the Fullerton church and a few from other Northern Orange county cities, including the Presbyterian church of Placentia, will unite for evening services at the tabernacle, with Dr. Graham C. Hunter, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Fullerton, presiding.

"It is with a great deal of pride and satisfaction, therefore, that we are here able to announce our selection as Hudson and Essex dealers for Santa Ana and vicinity.

"Please accept this as a personal invitation to visit our showrooms at your earliest convenience to inspect these splendid new cars and the thoroughly modern service facilities we are prepared to place at your disposal."

Elvin E. Webb

"Deeply conscious of our obligation to the public and to the large body of Hudson and Essex owners in Santa Ana, it affords us unusual pleasure to be able to announce our appointment of Elvin E. Webb as dealer for Hudson and Essex cars, the Pacemakers for 1932.

"The executives and personnel of the Elvin E. Webb are men in whose integrity and judgment we have every confidence.

Staged as a special air show marking the Martin airport's entry into the Class A airport classification by the government, the event will include dedicatory services for the new boundary lights which complete the field equipment required by the government.

Emergency Mail Landing
A spectacular event in the evening will be an emergency landing by one of the new Boeing air mail planes with Airmail Pilot Jimmy James, sent to Santa Ana by the Western Air Express, making a demonstration of how mail planes must land at night should the ship's motor go dead or other accident force immediate landing away from a lighted landing field.

J. W. White, general manager of Western Air, will be a passenger. Three flares will be set off by the mail pilot—one, two, and three—minute flares—which light the air at various levels and the ground surface, so that the pilot can see to bring his ship safely to land.

Three Parachute Jumps
Herb Stark of Santa Ana, who holds the world endurance record for consecutive jumps, will give a parachute demonstration of three separate jumps. On the third jump, he will leave the plane at 12,000 feet elevation and fall 10,000 feet, or approximately two miles, before pulling the ripcord of his chute. After falling 500 feet from the plane he will be traveling at the rate of 244 feet per second and it will be at this speed that his parachute will open.

Bill Hottle of Santa Ana, pilot of the American Airways on the El Paso-Los Angeles run, and former instructor at the Martin airport here, will stage a "balloon busting" demonstration, and Charles "Ace" Jackson, instructor at the field, will give a dead stick landing demonstration.

A comedy flight, one that will be full of laughs and thrills, will be staged promptly at 3 o'clock in the afternoon by Sid Holland, of Santa Ana. This act was given several weeks ago and made such a hit that those who saw it have insisted that it be repeated in tomorrow's program.

Army Planes Coming
The army pursuit planes and bombers coming from March Field will arrive shortly before noon, and must return early, so it was pointed out by Dale Decker, in charge of the program, that those wishing to inspect the army planes at close range must arrive early.

All day there will be inspection of the various planes on the field, and stunt demonstrations of many new types of ships, in addition to passenger flights by the Ford tri-motor, Autogiro, and other planes. The Autogiro will be a Kellet cabin ship, the only one of its kind on the west coast. Eddie Martin himself will participate in the stunt flights, along with dozens of visiting airmen.

Acceptances have been received from many out-of-town fliers, and between 250 and 300 air-planes are expected to arrive at the local field during the day.

The drill team of the American Legion Auxiliary will have charge of the parking of cars and refreshment concessions, with the larger share of parking receipts scheduled to go to the unemployment relief program of the city.

Display of Antique Wedding Rings Is Being Shown Here

An interesting display of old wedding rings and facts concerning the custom of symbolizing the marriage with a ring are now on display in the windows of the Lorenz Jewelry store on East Fourth street. The display will continue for one week, it is announced by William C. Lorenz, proprietor.

According to information received with the display, the use of the ring in connection with marriage dates back to the dusky daughters of the Nile in early Egyptian history. Hieroglyphics have been unearthed which show the Egyptians carved the circle to represent eternity, since a circle has no end. Thus they signified true love and affection should flow between husband and wife as in a circle, continuously and forever.

Many other traditions are illustrated in the display.

STUDENT WINNER IN SUIT ON NOTE

Because the note was assigned after it was due, Donald E. Pedersen and his mother, Mrs. Walter D. Horn, of Newport avenue, Costa Mesa, will not have to pay $25 to the Student's Finance company, of Chicago, Justice of the Peace Donald J. Dodge decided yesterday following the presentation of evidence in his court yesterday.

The finance company, said to be a subsidiary of the Cuyler Electrical company, Chicago, assigned its note to Walter E. Heller and company, also of Chicago. This firm in turn assigned the claim to the Appling Collection agency of Santa Ana.

According to the evidence presented the $25 was to furnish transportation to Chicago and provide school expenses. The school promised to give him part time employment at $8 per week during the time he was in school but failed to do so, Pedersen claimed.

According to Pedersen, when he learned that the Cuyler school had not provided employment for any of its students over three months, he returned to California, reimbursing the finance company for money advanced for the trip.

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

THE CALL OF MOSES

Text: Ex. 3:10-15; 4:10-12.
The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for July 10.
BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D.,
Editor of The Congregationalist.

The life of Moses would form interesting material for a discussion of the relative effects of environment and heredity upon character and career. Here we have a man coming to years of responsible choice with two dominant and more or less conflicting influences that have been upon him since babyhood.

We may be sure that his mother, who by subterfuge had become his nurse, instilled in him in some way the spirit and teachings of his race, though, of course, she was under the strict necessity of concealing her relationship to him.

On the other hand the interest of Pharaoh's daughter, and the environment and teaching that she provided for the child, must have been a very powerful factor, so powerful that it would have swept away anyone but a strong character in whom had been instilled high teachings and loyalty to his own.

A mother's influence, and Moses' consciousness of his alliance with the oppressed Hebrews, conquered. We are told that "by faith Moses when he was come to years refused to be called the son of Pharaoh's daughter." (Hebrews 11:24.)

He chose rather the lot of the oppressed people and to be one of them. Such choices brighten the dark pages of history. For the man who reads history with regard for its spiritual highlights, the notion that every man seeks his own interest, that every man has his price, and that the prevailing motive in human conduct is selfish is disproved.

Material advantage suggested to Moses that he should hold with the government and scorn his people. He might easily have justified a selfish and personally ambitious choice by persuading himself that it was in this way that he could ultimately serve his own race best.

But Moses was too clear seeing and too courageous a man to fool himself with any such arguments. He saw an oppression which filled him with the passion of protest and suffering of his own people that moved him to pity and to action.

The impulsiveness and intensity of his protest were evident when he slew an Egyptian who was in strife with a Hebrew and when he was discovered and he was forced to flee for safety. It was the failure of his people to recognize his allegiance with them that troubled him most.

It was under these circumstances that the call came to Moses to be the leader of his people, and the first task in that leadership was to appeal to Pharaoh to let the people go. A strong man might well have qualified before such a responsibility, but the reluctance of Moses to assume the task did not arise from his weakness or from any cowardice, but rather from his qualities of strength. It was a modest fear concerning his own abilities and powers, and not any cowardly hesitancy, that made him reluctant.

It is an experience that most great and real leaders have had. The true leader is not the man seeking honor and place and emolument. The world has suffered all too much from that sort of pseudo-leadership. The real leader is the man of conviction who sees the tasks of righteousness and truth to be so large that his own strength and abilities seem inadequate.

The inevitable effect of this feeling is to throw such a man back upon the divine resources. He goes forth, not trusting in his own strength, but trusting in God, and it was this conviction, that God was with him, that sent Moses forth to his task.

"Parties Without Candidates"

1. What effective method has the church to accomplish social justice?
2. Can we hope from either of the present political parties any progress in actual social betterment?
3. What would be the effect of an organized sentiment for social justice upon the candidates of the parties?
4. Would the church welcome an organization, non-political and non-sectarian, which would include liberal and progressive sentiment for social justice in all its varied parts?
5. Isn't it a fact that civilization and progress are moving around the church rather than through it? And isn't it a function of the church to lead in all matters of social and moral welfare?

WHAT SHALL I THINK OF JESUS?

"Wanting is—what?"

Summer redundant,

Blueness abundant,

—Where is the blot?

Beamy the world, yet a blank all the same,

Framework which waits for a picture to frame:

What of the leafage, what of the flower?

Roses embowering with naught they
embower;

Come then, complete incompletion, O come,

Pant thro' the blueness, perfect the summer:

Breathe but one breath

Rose-beauty above,

And all that was death

Grows life, grows love,

Grows love."

—Robert Browning

Biblical scholars of the foremost rank who upheld and taught the doctrine of the Second Coming of Christ, includes Oliver Cromwell, to whom England owes its very existence, as were also Sir Isaac Newton and Michael Faraday, the former, the father of modern physics, the latter, that of modern chemistry.

What Shall I Think of Christianity

Christianity at present, is narrow and cramped, because it is concerned entirely with this world, and takes little or no account of the Great Beyond. It tries to complete its philosophy upon the things and experiences of earth, or fighting against modern Marxism with its new theological thought, which excludes heaven as mystical and uncertain. Not so the Christianity of the New Testament. Its chief concern is with heaven, not with earth; with the future, not with the present. It says clearly and definitely that the things that are seen are temporal, but the things that are not seen are eternal. The Christianity of Jesus and His apostles is entirely different in tone and genius from the present Christianity in modern world.

ferent in tone and genius from the present Christianity in modern world.

What Shall I Think of Jesus?

According to the late Kanzo Uchimura, prophet of Japan: "He that believeth on the Son has eternal life." He: an indefinite "he", any son of Adam, a publican or a sinner, any one. BELIEVETH: accepts Him on His words, as the believer's substitute before God. THE SON: only begotten son of the Father's love, the Lord Jesus Christ. HATH: possess; has in entire and complete possession; and that now (the present tense), just NOW, without waiting for the glorious future, in the daily continuous experience of the belonging life. ETERNAL LIFE: supersensuous, supernatural, never-dying, death conquering life. Very simply believing on the Crucified Son of God, can have in entire possession, now in this life, a life that is life indeed, even the life of God — oh, how gloriously and thankfully true, as proved by the unerring experience of multitudes of believers called from among all the nations of the world." (John III-16).

What Shall I Think of Prayer?

I do not pray myself. I let God pray for me. God the spirit dwelling within me, praying through me the will of God, often with groanings that cannot be uttered—that is my true prayer. Philosophically incomprehensible but experimentally true. This prayer of God praying to God through and in His children. It is my prayer because I let Him do it for me; and precisely because its contents are not my wishes and desires but His holy will, it is acceptable in His sight, and is sure to be heard. Abnegation of self is necessary even when addressing God for help. (U. K.)

What Shall I Think of Buddhism?

I do not say that Buddhism is just as good as the old Gospel of Jesus, nor do I say Confucianism, Shintoism, "Ethical Evangelism", "Spiritual Internationalism" and Communism.

COME to CHURCH

A SERMONETTE

By REV. TAKESHI BAN, D. D.

Pastor Japanese Independent Church, Bolsa, Calif.

"What Shall I Think of Jesus?"

The Gospel we believe in is so old and witnessed to by the apostles and prophets. The Lamb our Savior was slain from the foundation of the world. We do not commit our souls to any thing newer than the old, primitive, pristine, Rock of Ages. But I say definitely that Buddhism is one way of coming to Jesus, just as we find many various prophets in the old Testament times. Buddha is a prophet for Christ, like as John was a finder of Jesus.

What Shall I Think of War?

Duke of Wellington: "War is a most detestable thing. If you had seen one day of war, you would pray God that you might never see another." I was converted in the war field in Manchuria, during Japan-Russo war. When I had seen war in Port Arthur and in Mukden, I became a Christian and always, constantly, courageously, and earnestly preach to people the Truce of God. If there is true Christianity there will be no swords to kill. If all people were Christians and were all Christians in the world to denounce war, not merely as costly, and cruel, and barbarous, but as essentially, and eternally unchristian; another war in the civilized world would become impossible.

The history of the Japanese Independent Church of Orange County:

The Japanese Independent Church was organized in Santa Ana, seventeen years ago. It was first located on West Sixth street, later it moved to Garden Grove, where its activities have centered. The church is now located at Bolsa.

This church was organized with twelve active Japanese members, and was planned as a Japanese

What Shall I Think of the At-Last?

He came not to judge the world, but to save it, so it cannot be otherwise in His Second Coming. Whereupon on the earth "As in Adam all die, so in Christ shall all be made alive." But each in his own order; the Christian to his resurrection-life; the Jew to his Messianic blessing; and the Buddhist to the brightness of His Glory. And all will be saved that God may be all in all. Judgment necessarily accompanies salvation; but judgment is an accompaniment, and not the aim.

Community church, which would accept any Protestant church member. But the Japanese people have all been educated or reared in strong denominational doctrine, generally in mission churches supported by American mother churches and great difficulty has been experienced in holding the group together.

Rev. Takeshi Ban has been its pastor from the beginning. In order that the church might continue to exist it has been necessary for the pastor to engage in all sorts of outside activities in order to support his family, and to make it possible for the Japanese people to have their own church. In the early years he worked as a laborer, for a number of years he was engaged in truck farming, at the present he is teaching and holds a position as a professor at the Los Angeles Pacific college.

The regular Sunday school has an enrollment of fifty pupils and six selected teachers. They are the following: Mrs. Seiko Ban, Miss Helen Ban, Miss Michiko Kakita, Miss Grace Ban, Mr. M. Tanaka and Rev. Ban.

The regular membership totals twenty-six. During the years of service two members became missionaries. They are the Rev. C. Furuta of the Congregational Church in Hawaii, and Reverend F. K. Endo of the Congregational Church in Santa Barbara.

Many Japanese students from Japan have been enrolled in the membership of this church, but due to their residing in the vicinity of Los Angeles and Pasadena, it makes it very difficult for them to be regular in attendance. However, through their willingness and strong desire for co-operation, arrangements are made to hold meetings, with them.

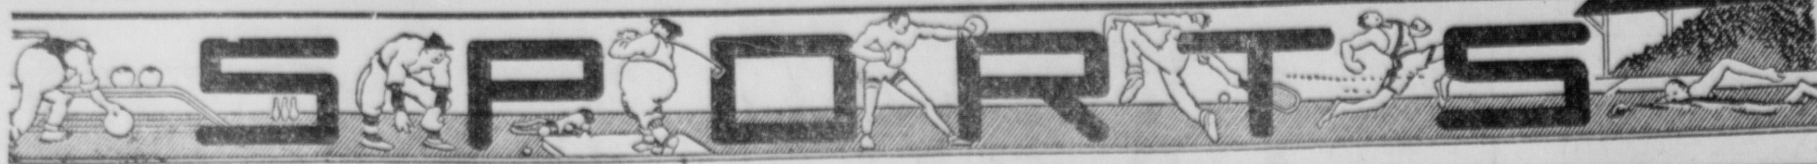

The present situation of the church is not its best; mainly due to the cause of the present depression. Nevertheless, the church through these long years of service has kept the Holy place of worship.

The Reverend Dr. Ban, through his long years of service for the Japanese people, has carried out the work of God to many. He has aided the Japanese community to establish a true Christian Church and a community of many faithful believers in Christ.

His Coming is a cosmic affair; not only certain Christians, all are interested in it, and all will be blessed by Him.

I simply believe it, and praise God for it; —all the while, without ceasing to hate evil and love good.

Japanese Independent Christian Church of Orange County and its pastor, I, do not know how long we may hold our church as a castle of our Saviour, but His name will always be the same, yesterday, today, and forever.

Tied City Champions In First Lap Playoff

AL'S SERVICE, 'CATS' MIX AT BOWL TONIGHT

Weeks of vigorous hustling after titular baseball spoils will be climaxed at the Bowl tonight with a make-or-break, take-it-or-leave-it game between Al's Service and the Green Cat cafe for the first half championship of the Santa Ana City league.

The two clubs finished their regular schedule tied for first place, with eight victories against a single defeat, a last night setback at the hands of MacMillan Gasoline depriving Al's Service of the privilege of meeting the survivor of the two-out-of-three post-season series for the city championship.

In league circles the outcome is considered strictly a tossup, although Al's Service has been anything but impressive in its recent starts. "Bones" Koral probably will be on the knoll for the Servicemen, with either Wilson Seacord or Fred Miller slated to work for the Green Cats. Ernie Jiles will catch Koral. Collins will handle the "Cat" chukkers.

Garlock, English, Dugger and Joe Koral compose the infield for Al's Auto Service, with Prather, Baker and Friend in the outfield.

Montgomery, Rebohn, Conrad and Emmett Seacord give the Green Cats a powerful infield. Sullivan, Middlebrook and Arnold are the flychuckers.

The contest, beginning at 8 o'clock, will be open to the public. It is being played on Saturday night because no other evening is available at the Bowl.

DICKEY FINED $100, SUSPENDED 30 DAYS

CHICAGO, July 9.—(UP)—Bill Dickey, New York Yankee catcher, was fined $100 today by President William Harbridge of the American league and his indefinite suspension set at 30 days.

The heavy-hitting catcher was suspended after he broke Carl Reynolds' jaw in a fight during a Yankee-Senators game.

Dickey will be eligible to play Aug. 4.

President Harbridge also issued an order to all American league umpires to curb the growing use of the "bean ball" throughout the circuit.

Harbridge said that entirely too many pitchers were attempting to "duff off" batters and that such tactics had caused ill-feeling between several clubs and players.

He said he hoped to avert a tragedy such as took place in 1920 when Ray Chapman, Cleveland shortstop, was killed by one of Carl Mays' pitches.

OLIVE PENNANT HOPES SAG AS ANAHEIM WINS

The omnipresent Olive "menace" was almost whisked out of the 1932 National Night league picture at Anaheim last night.

Nosed out in 10 innings by the flaming Valencia, 4-3, "Big Ben" Gekker's troublesome Packers were all but eliminated from the second half championship race.

Olive went down fighting, coming from behind in the ninth inning to tie the score and send the struggle to an extra period in which Al Kohler singled, Orr Schuchardt beat out a bunt and Randolph Bell bounced a hit over first base to break the 3-3 deadlock.

It was an old, old story as far as Olive was concerned. Rudy Heman would have won with errorless support. The big Gekker pitcher gave up 13 hits but most of these were of the garden variety and did not figure in the run-making until the overtime round.

Olive got a run in the first on "Hen" Thiery's double. Tedder's safe bunt, "Chisel" Hatfield's infield single. The Packers assembled another in the second on Heman's walk, two infield outs, Heman's single. This gave the Gekkerites a 2-0 lead.

Anaheim scored a run in a hectic third inning. Kohler was safe when Sweet's muffed Griffith's throw to first. Schuchardt singled to left and took an extra base with Kohler when Gunther's throw to second found the bag uncovered. Hatfield saved Heman momentarily by making a spectacular backhand stab of Bell's drive and doubling Schuchardt off second, but Heman singled infield to score Kohler.

Anaheim moved out ahead, 3-2, in the seventh when Pitcher "Pepzy" Errington opened with a home run to left. Schrott was safe and went to second on Sweet's error and scored on a pair of wild pitches.

Olive tied it in the ninth on Thiery's single, a wild pitch, Tedder's infield out, Sweet's single.

Eleven Still Unbeaten In Tennis Play

After two weeks of strenuous singles play, 11 Santa Anas today remained undefeated in the round-robin tournament which annually produces the city's tennis champion.

Six of these are in the "A" division, and are paced by Randolph Bell, undefeated titleholder of 1930-31, and Toby White, now conceding the best chance of dethroning Bell. Gene Robinson, last year's winner in the "B" group, is again out in front in his class.

An incident in which I figured during the London Olympics of 1908 provides an illustration. There had been much loose talk of the tenacious supposed to mark the American and British relations.

An English star, Harold Wilson, had been the favorite to win the 1500 meters. He had placed second and I had been fortunate enough to win a desperately fought race.

Several days later came the final of the 800 meters in which I had been installed as the outstanding favorite. I had won both the American and Canadian half-mile titles in the two preceding years with performances which made it appear likely I could not only win the Olympic 800 meters but also better the British 880-yard record if given the opportunity.

Without suggestion on my part or that of the American team managers, the Englishmen who were taking a leading part in the direc-

S. A. EXTENDED TO WIN FROM ACORNS. 11 TO 8

Santa Ana's topnotch Stars had to work like Trojans to decide Long Beach's tallied Acorns at the Bowl last night. Conducting themselves like champs rather than champs, the Santa Anas were more or less fortunate to snag a 11 to 8 victory in one of their hardest games of the season.

Long Beach impotency, rather than Santa Ana pugnance, eventually gave George Lackaye's merry-men the strong end of the score. A tight Long Beach infield might have tumbled the Stars out of first place in the National Night league's pennant race in the most dramatic upset of the year.

But the Acorns, five runs out in front and going strong, simply weren't equal to the emergency. In the stretch, they blew up like a toy blimp and the lucky Stars limped across the finish line, glad to be whole.

Cornelius Starts Unsteadily

Fresh from a one-hit triumph over Westminster, Joe Cornelius, Santa Ana's ace pitcher, was battered all over the Bowl in the first two innings. Long Beach got three in the first when Hernandez tripled against the left field fence with the bases loaded and two away, Osborne, Hyde and Kornder doing the scoring. Coleman's single, Roberts' triple, Osborne's single, Guy's single and Leavitt Daley's error on White's grounder allowed the Acorns four more in the second.

After getting that out of his system, Cornelius settled down and hurled fairly well, allowing only five hits the rest of the evening, two of them coming in the last of the ninth for the final Acorn tally.

Santa Ana got two in the first on "Rosy" Merrill's single and stolen base, George Preble's single on which he took second on the throw-in and Ballard's single.

Stars "Beat Back"

Ballard was safe in the third on Coleman's error, stole second, scored on Ed Daley's sizzling drive to right.

Cornelius' double to left started a two-ply rally in the fourth although the pitcher was tossed out trying to stretch it into a triple. Denney followed with a single and stole second on Catcher White, who had a terrible night behind the plate. Merrill singled infield and worked a double steal with Denney, going to third when Kroner muffed White's throw and tallying on a wild pitch.

The Stars finally tied the score 7-7 in the seventh. Merrill beat out a bunt and stole second. Preble's long single to left-center scored Merrill. Ballard doubled Preble to third and Ed Daley's single tallied Ballard with the tying counter.

Winning Runs In Eighth

Hapes was safe on Coleman's error in the eighth. He went to second on Wilcox's sacrifice and scored on two passed balls. Then with two down, Denney doubled, moved up on a wild pitch and scored on a passed ball. Catcher White was getting no better fast. Singles by Preble and Ed Daley, a fly to right by Hapes, and Wilcox's sharp single to right ac-

SIGN SAVOLDI FOR BIG SHOW AT CITY BOWL

With the sanction of the Santa Ana city council virtually assured, Promoter Elmer Wilson today announced plans for a monster wrestling show at the Bowl here the night of Thursday, July 21.

The program will feature such celebrities as:

"Jumping Joe" Savoldi of Notre Dame football fame;

Everette Marshall, one time contender for the heavyweight mat title; Wladek Zyzsko, internationally known veteran;

Hardy Kruskamp, former Ohio State All-American football player; "Bull" Heffner of Sherman, Tex.; Sailor Harry Ekizian, former champion of the United States navy.

The city will receive the bulk of the receipts, and money thus derived will be used to help the city's unemployed, according to Wilson. The council has dedicated itself to the completion of the big Bowl project and funds received from the wrestling enterprise will be used to continue with the stadium, with unemployed doing the work.

Wilson said he would appear before the council at its next meeting Monday and apply for a permit to operate wrestling at the Bowl. He intimated that the matter had been discussed with members informally.

The show will be presented at "popular prices," from 50 to $1.50. Wilson claims the same card would be presented at $3 to $5 prices anywhere else.

Hollywood American Legion post will donate to the cause of the Santa Ana unemployed its portable ring and will send here gratis its staff of operators.

Wilson said no effort had been yet made to pair off the principals.

MISS CRUICKSHANK ROUTS MRS. VAN RYN

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 9.—(UP)—Josephine Cruickshank of Santa Ana, Cal., defeated Mrs. Marjorie Gladman Van Ryn of Philadelphia, 6-4, 6-2 today to win the Rhode Island women's singles tennis championship.

The Providence tournament was the first major Eastern play in which Miss Cruickshank will participate during an extensive summer tennis campaign. She will next compete in the famous Longwood tourney at Chestnut Hill, Mass., beginning Monday. Mrs. Van Ryn, beaten today by the Santa Ana, is Miss Cruickshank's doubles partner.

SPORT BULLETINS

NEW YORK, July 9.—(INS)—Damon Runyon, noted sports writer, and his bride, the former Patricia Amati Del Grande, Spanish dancer, were honeymooning today. They were married yesterday by Mayor Walker.

CHICAGO, July 9.—(INS)—Jack Chevigny, former backfield coach of the Notre Dame football team, has been appointed coach of the Chicago Cardinals' professional gridiron squad, it was announced today. Chevigny, who resigned from the Notre Dame staff last January, replaces Ernie Nevers, who quit the Cardinals in order to assume a position as assistant coach at Stanford.

SANTA CRUZ, July 9.—(INS)—I have always positively declared that the man never lived who could run 100 yards in 9.5 seconds. It is going to take Californians a long time to learn that some of these sprinters cannot run as fast as they have been credited."

So today declared Tom Keane, Syracuse coach and once famed sprinter, now a member of the U. S. Olympic team coaching staff.

"The fault does not arise with Western timers," Keane said, "but with Western starters. The sprinters roll out of their marks here, anticipating the gun. Back East they are held longer on their marks and consequently are slower getting up momentum."

"The running of the century in 9.6 seconds is impossible and will never be done."

Keane and John Magee of Bouldin, another member of the Olympic staff, picked Carr of Pennsylvania to defeat Ben Eastman of Stanford at Palo Alto but think the order may possibly be reversed in the Olympic Games when the entire race is run in lanes.

NEWS FROM THE AUTOMOBILE WORLD

TRAVELS 283 MILES PER DAY ON GENERALS

When one drives a motor car more than 79,000 miles in a year, he doesn't get to stay very long in one place.

If one is to consider 200 days an average working (or driving) year, then W. H. Lempiere, of Detroit, Mich., covered 283 miles on the average every day in the past year.

A map of the United States, on which his twelve-month wanderings have been traced, looks as though a beetle had tracked, with ink-stained feet, back and forth and back and forth across the map from coast to coast.

When he reached Akron the other day, Lempiere remarked casually that he had driven the entire 79,000 miles on one set of tires—General dual balloons.

"After 79,000 miles, they started to look a little ragged," he remarked. "I'm still using two of them for spares."

When in Texas recently, driving his heavily-laden 5800-pound sedan in sales promotion work, he became interested in the new low-pressure streamliner jumbo tires, also made exclusively by General, and has had his car fitted with them all round.

"Had a funny experience the other day," Lempiere said while in Akron. "I was traveling along at about 65 miles an hour when I heard something that sounded like a tire being punctured. Other cars were near and I said to the chap riding with me, 'Somebody just got a puncture!' We rode along 19 or 15 miles and I heard a noise as though air was leaving one of my tires."

"I stopped then and, sure enough, there was a big nail in one of my front jumbos. The tire wasn't flat yet, though, and I put the jack under the car. Just as I got the jack under, the rest of the air left the tire and the car dropped down on the jack."

"You know I like a tire that gives you three warnings, after it has been punctured, before the tire goes flat. The low air pressure I was using prevented a blow-out or a sudden deflation of the streamliner jumbo tire."

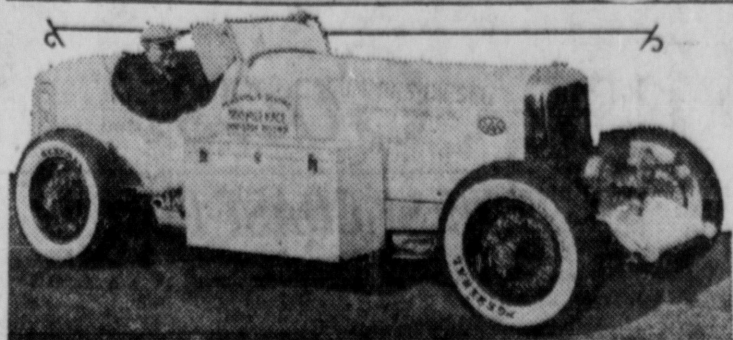

As with his dual balloons, Mr. Lempiere is doing close to 300 miles a day on his streamliner jumbo tires, with a load of close to three tons.

Indianapolis Record-Breaker Seeks New European Laurels

AFTER having established the unique record of being the only racing car ever to have completed a 500-mile Memorial Day race on the Indianapolis speedway without a single stop, a Diesel-motored racer built by C. L. Cummins, of Columbus, Ind., has just been taken to Europe by its owner to try to lower some European speed marks. In preference to specially-built racing tires, Cummins will race the car on European tracks on stock dual balloon tires. With Will Irwin, also of Columbus, he will spend several months in Europe this summer. Cummins is shown in the car above.

NEW TYPE OF TIRE DESIGNED BY U. S. CO.

A new type of construction designed to prolong the life of heavy service tires is announced by the United States Rubber Company. The type is known as Shock Ply Construction.

Shock Ply Construction provides for the use of two cord breaker plies of special design embedded in the tread rubber and extending from bead to bead that serve as a new and better means for anchoring the tread and sidewalls to the carcass. During curing the tread rubber beneath the shock plies blends with the carcass cushion rubber and serves to still further weld the tread and carcass into a single unit.

Company officials claim the following advantages are offered by Shock Ply Construction: 23 per cent greater resistance to tread separation; 33 1-3 per cent greater resistance to side cover blows; and 15 per cent greater resistance to broken fabric. All these advantages, of course, mean lower cost per ton mile.

CONSTANCE BENNETT OPENS IN NEW FILM

"Attorney For Defense" At West Coast Sunday

MYSTERIES OF HOLLYWOOD ARE AGAIN SHOWN

Of its people and made by its people, Hollywood writes its own biography in "What Price Hollywood," which brings the smart vivacity of the glamorous Constance Bennett in her latest RKO picture, the starring production coming to the Fox Broadway theater Sunday. Miss Bennett is purported to amount the charm and elegance displayed in her previous film success, "Lady With a Past," which won a host of new fans for the green star.

Peers Into Hollywood Life

With a galaxy of celebrities in support, Miss Bennett unfolds the intrigues and intimacies of the inner and more notable circles of the film Capitol. Lowell Sherman, Neil Hamilton, Gregory Ratoff, Louise Beavers and others aid the star to present an authentic scrupulousness of Hollywood life. The action traverses the thoroughfare of social life coupled with a delightful tale. Malibu Beach, the Brown Derby Restaurant, glittering Hollywood boulevard, Agua Caliente, a Chinese theater premiere and the princely estates of Beverly Hills partake of the film footage to enhance the story. Moreover, every phase of talking picture making is frankly revealed.

Absorbing Tale

The story of "What Price Hollywood" was authored by Adela Rogers Hyland, one of the city's own residents who consequently is enabled to cull the most familiar angles of Hollywood. Concerning herself with an ambitious girl who crashes the studio gates, the plot depicts the spectacular rise of a waitress who enchants a famed director and producer to gain ace ranking in the screen. Intertwined, is an ultra-modern note of romance and whimsical comedy which will charm Bennett fans and snare an additional list of followers.

COMING TOMORROW

Lowell Sherman and Constance Bennett in a scene from "What Price Hollywood," which opens at the Fox Broadway theater tomorrow and which gives the public another inside glimpse of America's strangest city.

EDMUND LOWE REPORTED IN GREATEST ROLE

"Attorney for the Defense," a Columbia production starting Sunday at the Fox West Coast theater, presents Edmund Lowe as a district attorney who sours on his profession when he finds he has sent an innocent man to the electric chair. No more suitable role could have been found for Lowe.

The erratic and highly dramatic life of a man, who as a public prosecutor turns persecutor to reach the Governor's chair, until the death of an innocent man turns him disgustedly away from the district attorneyship, moves in the most active court in the world—New York City's Criminal Court.

Lowe's superb performance is given admirable support by the portrayals of Evelyn Brent as Val Lorraine, a lady who loves only when there is money in it for her, and Constance Cummings, Lowe's secretary—faithful, adoring, efficient.

After Burton, District Attorney, becomes Burton, defense attorney, determined to keep accused men out of the chair as he before had sent them there, he tries to make amends by taking under his care the wife and son of the innocent man for whose death he holds himself responsible.

Val Lorraine, his former paramour, tries to encourage Burton to relent in his persecution of Nick Quinn, gangster, her present lover, through a Citizen's Committee. Burton has formed to get the real criminals that infest the city. Burton laughs her away.

A sudden phone call one night from Val brings Burton to her apartment to find her murdered, and lying in a drunken stupor beside her, Paul Wallace, the boy whose innocent father Burton had sent to the chair when he was district attorney. Val had been working the boy to get the incriminating papers in Burton's possession. To shield Paul, Burton surrenders to the police and is brought to trial accused of the murder of Val Lorraine.

The trial of Burton, who conducts his own defense, is one of the most dramatic and unusual ever screened. And the unique turn of circumstantial events that finally gives Burton the clue to the real murderer, is an unusual and cleverly worked out plot complication.

'BAT WHISPERS' SHOWS SUNDAY AT WALKER'S

"The Bat Whispers," adapted, directed and dialogued by Roland West from a stage play, is the producer's first undertaking since "Alibi," United Artists' earliest all-talking feature and the screen hit that skyrocketed Chester Morris and several others to fame.

In "The Bat Whispers," which opens Sunday at Walker's State theater, Morris is featured alone.

The cast of supporting principals recruited by West is a notable one. Una Merkel, Gustav Von Seyffertitz, Ben Bard, Grayce Hampton, Spencer Charters, Charles Dew Clark, and Maude Eburne are among the players. Miss Merkel, former young New York stage actress now under contract to the Joseph M. Schenck organization, has appeared in only two pictures, D. W. Griffith's "Abraham Lincoln," in which she is featured with Walter Huston, and "Eyes of the World."

Miss Hampton, Charters, Clark and Miss Eburne are from the New York and London stage.

For "The Bat Whispers," which West says he selected as screen material from more than 25 plays, books and original stories considered during the past six months, he engaged Ray June, who photographed "Alibi," as chief of the camera battery.

"MAKE ME A STAR" CLOSES RUN IN S. A.

As befits a movie with the title, "Make Me a Star" there is no dearth of stellar talent in Stuart Erwin's latest picture at the Fox Broadway theater today.

In addition to the regular cast which includes Erwin, Joan Blondell, ZaSu Pitts and Ben Turpin, there are seven others whose names are "electric-light must-gos" in every picture in which they play. These prominent stars—Maurice Chevalier, Sylvia Sydney, Claudette Colbert, Gary Cooper, Tallulah Bankhead, Clive Brook, Fredric March, Phillips Holmes, Jack Oakie and Charlie Ruggles—appear in authentic studio scenes which are part of the plot-action of "Make Me a Star."

Erwin, as the movie-struck hero, who saves up his pennies as a grocery clerk in a small midwest town and goes to the film capital seeking fame in pictures, meets these various stars in the course of his wandering about the studios, seeking a job as an extra.

Joan Blondell, as a double for a screen celebrity, and herself ambitious for stellar success, takes pity on Erwin, who is just a bewildered stooge, and finally helps him to win a doubtful renown.

FIVE STARS IN GRAND HOTEL COMING SOON

Five famous stars play the leading roles in "Grand Hotel," Vicki Baum's sensational drama which will be the attraction at the Fox Broadway Theater Wednesday and Thursday July 20th and 21st.

All seats for the M. G. M. picture will be reserved and there will be two performances, one at 2:15 and one at 8:15 p. m. Plans now are being made to make the local engagement a gala affair according to an announcement by the theater management, this being the only presentation of the extraordinary attraction here during the current season.

Named by Liberty magazine the "screen event of 1932," "Grand Hotel" is interpreted by a genuine "million dollar" cast. For the first time in the history of the talkies, five of Hollywood's outstanding stars have accepted leading roles in one production. Their combined salaries for the drama approach the million dollar mark.

Greta Garbo, the screen's most seductive actress, is seen as Grusinskaya, the Russian dancer who finds love—and loses it—within a period of twenty four hours. John Barrymore portrays the baron who turns thief; Joan Crawford plays Fiemmchen, the hotel stenographer who becomes involved in the affairs of others. Wallace Beery is memorable as an unscrupulous financier accustomed to taking what he wants, and Lionel Barrymore turns in another magnificent characterization as the obscure clerk who

WEST COAST ENDS DOUBLE BILL SHOW

A double feature bill of unusual merit is seen at the Fox West Coast theater today for the last times, with the showing of "The Secrets of a Secretary" and "Sweepstakes."

The latter picture shows Eddie Quillan at his best, as a jockey. With a racetrack background, dirty work before the big race, a romance and the final running of the classic, the picture has everything to make it thrilling and interesting.

In "Secrets of a Secretary," which stars Claudette Colbert, the inner workings of the average American business office is shown, with some romance thrown in for good measure. This picture too is built up to a startling climax and there is a surprise at the end.

SANTA ANA, CALIFORNIA, SATURDAY, JULY 9, 1932

Dr. David W. Goodwin Returns From East With His Bride

The arrival this week from the east of Dr. David Wright Goodwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Goodwin, 522 East Chestnut street, with his bride, the former Miss Gladys Josephine Gourley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Gourley, of Wilkinsburg, Penn., gave Santa Ana friends of the young dentist an opportunity to learn details of the wedding which was an event of June 15, in the Pennsylvania city.

The ceremony was a formal church affair at which Dr. J. C. Whitlatch of Uniontown, Penn., a close friend of both the Gourley and the Goodwin families, officiated. Miss Gourley was gown-dressed in satin and pearls d'ango lace gleaming beneath a filmy tulle veil caught cap-wise to her hair with orange blossoms. She carried bride and sweetheart roses showered with lilies of the valley.

Members of the bridal party included Miss Ruth Brisbane, Miss Mary Bloom and Miss Lillian Cole, maid of honor and bridesmaids; Dr. Glenn Devision, best man, and Messrs. Harry McLaughlin, Elmer Gourley, Paul Schultz and George Huber, ushers.

Following the nuptial rites, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Gourley and Dr. and Mrs. R. D. Goodwin (uncle and aunt of the bridegroom) joined with the newly wedded pair and their attendants in greeting friends at a beautifully appointed reception held in the Penn. Lincoln hotel.

Dr. Goodwin and his bride left for their honeymoon trip to California and the home awaiting them here in the Golden state, sailing from New York on the S. S. "Dixie" for New Orleans, and completing the trip by the Sunset Limited. At present they are guests in the Goodwin home in this city, and Dr. Goodwin's new brother-in-law and his sister, Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Roberts of Brea, themselves only recently returned from their Grand Canyon honeymoon trip. Mrs. Roberts was Miss Ruth Goodwin.

Dr. Goodwin, who had his high school training in Pennsylvania, former home state of the Goodwin family, attended Fullerton junior college, and followed that with a course in the Dental college of University of Southern California. He will open an office at once in Brea where the young couple will make their present home.

His bride followed her high school graduation with a course at the University of Pittsburgh, where she graduated about three years ago, and where she was affiliated with Kappa Delta and Kappa Phi, both national sororities. She has been teaching in the Pittsburgh schools since completion of her college course.

Church Young People Enjoy Picnic on Balboa Island

Boating, cards and ball games afforded gay diversion for a group of Epworth League young folks of the First Methodist Episcopal church of this city, when they traveled to Balboa Beach this week for an evening's fun.

Reaching the beach in the late afternoon, the young people divided their energies between the several beach sports offered before they were summoned to the A. J. Rutter cottage on Balboa Island for a picnic supper prepared by several of their number. Nearly 40 League members gathered for the supper, arrangements for which had been made by Miss Blanche Thompson, Miss Rowena Newcomb, Phillip Searls and Fred Newcomb, Jr.

Breakfast and Shower Find Incentive in Wedding Plans

An early breakfast and miscellaneous shower was given recently by Miss Louise Bach in the garden of her home, 1104 South Van Ness avenue, honoring her cousin, Miss Gertrude McConnell of Long Beach who will become the bride of Floyd Klingenberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Klingenberg, 1135 South Parton street, sometime in the early fall.

The color motif carried out during the breakfast was a charming mingling of blue and yellow. Each table was centered with yellow rosebuds, and corsages of blue and yellow flowers were found at each place, except at that of the honored guest, who was presented with white rose-buds. Miniature brides and grooms served as place cards.

Following the breakfast, each guest was given a tea towel to embroder in Miss McConnell's chosen colors for her future kitchen, which she plans to have in blue and yellow.

Many lovely gifts were given the young bride-elect. Miss McConnell and Mr. Klingenberg are planning to make their future home in Santa Ana where Mr. Klingenberg is employed at the Studebaker garage. The bride-elect is a graduate of the class of 1932 of Long Beach Junior college.

Guests assembled for the shower were Miss Gertrude McConnell, the honoree, her young hostess, Miss Louise Bach, Miss Florence Sutherland, Miss Grace Elliot, Miss Theola Ridgway, Mrs. A. A. Klingenberg, Mrs. A. E. McCarter and Mrs. James Bach.

M. E. Missionary Folk Will Stage Branch Assembly Here

A delegation numbering approximately 300 is expected to fill the First Methodist church of this city Wednesday morning at 9:30 o'clock when Mrs. Alfred Matthews of San Francisco, president of the Pacific Branch of the Women's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal denomination calls to order the third quarterly meeting of that organization.

Program plans as worked out by executives of the society give every indication of yielding benefits of an unusual character, at this conference, the meeting numbering among its speakers Bishop J. W. Robinson of India, who will deliver the principal address at 11:15 o'clock, and Mrs. B. D. Snudder of Riverside, formerly of Fullerton, corresponding secretary for the branch. Among other speakers scheduled to appear are three missionary women, Miss Sadie May Smith, whose field has been in Burma; Miss Sarah Bosworth, and Miss Gladys Black, who is to return soon after next week's conference to her work in the Philippine Islands, and whose talk before the Santa Ana meeting may represent her final public appearance before her return. Various officers of the branch also will contribute addresses, among these being Mrs. J. K. Cecil of Palo Alto; Mrs. J. Seymour of Pasadena, and Mrs. F. F. Johnson of Pasadena.

The morning session will be devoted to talks by the latter officers and by Bishop Robinson, while in the afternoon delegates will hear Mrs. Snudder and the missionary workers. Wednesday noon a luncheon will be served at the church for hostesses and visiting representatives.

A branch executive meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, members of the officers' council having been invited to hold an all day session at the church for the purpose of considering business matters of moment. The Doris Welles auxiliary of the Santa Ana church will serve dinner to this group Tuesday evening at the church.

Reaching the beach in the late afternoon, the young people divided their energies between the several beach sports offered before they were summoned to the A. J. Rutter cottage on Balboa Island for a picnic supper prepared by several of their number. Nearly 40 League members gathered for the supper, arrangements for which had been made by Miss Blanche Thompson, Miss Rowena Newcomb, Phillip Searls and Fred Newcomb, Jr.

ORANGE COUNTY WOMEN PICTURED HERE HAVE FIGURED IN SUMMER ACTIVITIES

Mrs. MURDOCH HENRY

Mrs. BOYD DAVIS

Mrs. FLOYD STRELOW

Mrs. RICHARD J. McDONALD

MRS. MURDOCH HENRY

In her position as president of the Balboa circle of the Woman's Aid society of the Methodist "Church Beside the Sea," Mrs. Murdoch Henry of Balboa has directed her group in some of the most interesting and remunerative social affairs in the history of the circle. The latest of these was a clever "bonnet tea" in the John T. Legg home on Balboa Island. In addition to her leadership in the Balboa circle, Mrs. Henry serves as vice president and program chairman of the Newport Beach Elks club; and in church activities, she is corresponding secretary of the Foreign Missionary society and treasurer of the General Aid society.

MRS. BOYD DAVIS

The marriage of Miss Ruby Slate of Barber City and Boyd Davis of Wintersburg was a charming ceremony of Saturday evening, June 25, in the home of the bridegroom's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Davis, 1138 South Parton street, Santa Ana. The pretty bride will have many pretty things in her home to recall her engagement days, for she was complimented at a succession of parties and showers. Mr. and Mrs. Davis have been honeymooning in Sequoia National park, but have now returned and are at home to their many friends in a pretty place on North Monroe street, Midway City, which Mr. Davis had in readiness for his bride.

MRS. FLOYD STRELOW

Before her marriage on Saturday, July 2, Mrs. Floyd Strelow was Miss Eva M. Adams, popular daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Adams of North Alameda street, El Modena. The wedding was held in the brides' chapel of Santa Ana First M. E. church with the Rev. George A. Warner reading the service in the presence of half a hundred friends of the young couple. The bride is a native daughter of California, born and reared in the home which she left to establish a new home in San Diego where she and Mr. Strelow will live. She graduated in 1928 from Orange Union High school. Mr. Strelow has been in the navy for the past four years and is stationed at San Diego.

MRS. RICHARD McDONALD

Marking her bridal lines and silver offered no complications to Miss Gladys McDonald of Santa Ana, for at her wedding on Thursday, June 23, she became Mrs. Richard James McDonald, speaking the nuptial vows before the Rev. Father John Riddin of Los Angeles at an impressive ceremony in the historic San Juan Capistrano Mission. Mr. and Mrs. McDonald joined another recent bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Jerry, in a honeymoon trip to the Yosemite, and returning, will be at home to their friends at 1212 Orange avenue. Mr. McDonald is with the Texas Oil company at Huntington Beach. His bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick McDonald of Gretna, Neb., has lived in this city for the past two years, and has served her uncle, B. W. Flannagan, as private secretary.

Earl Morris followed this with a unique contribution when she read a letter which Ronald Anderson, an English teacher in Japan, had written to her son, Leonard Morris, describing the island of Formosa and the writer's stay there while recuperating from an illness.

The program was given a pleasing poetical touch when Mrs. G. W. Bond read an original poem, "Assurance," followed by a group selected from "The Silver Bugles of the Moon," a book of verse by Anna Louise Barney. This book was one of several volumes of poems which Mrs. Bond has received through an exchange made possible by her membership in the American Writers' society. The Santa Ana writer is herself the author of "The Lure of the Open," a book of collected poems, and many other original poems and stories.

In addition to Pegasus members enjoying the al fresco meeting were several guests, including Mrs. Justus Birchler, Winifred and Jeanette Brown and Jeanne Allen.

Engagement Announced Of Robert O'Brien to Massachusetts Girl

To friends in this city of Robert W. O'Brien and his mother, Mrs. Eva B. O'Brien of 1216 South Flower street, came today news of the betrothal of the young sociological worker in eastern universities, to Miss Helen Elizabeth Malcolm of Wollaston, Mass.

Formal announcement of the betrothal of the young people was made early in July by Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm, immediately after the arrival of Mr. O'Brien from his duties as acting head of the sociology department of Talladega college, Alabama, a position assumed during the absence of the department head on a sabbatical year abroad.

Santa Ana friends who have followed the career of Robert O'Brien with so much interest since his graduation from junior college here and completion of his course at Pomona college, will be interested both in his attainments and in those of his fiancée.

After graduating from Pomona, Mr. O'Brien took his Master's degree at Oberlin, where he held a graduate assistantship in sociology, work that had first aroused his interest on a trip around the world which he took after his junior college days here. While in Santa Ana junior college, he, with John McCoy, well-known Santa Ana who is now teaching at U. S. C., founded the famous Junior College "Don." While in Pomona, O'Brien was editor of the Pomona College Daily Student Life, and was a member of the student executive council, as he had been at junior college. In fraternity life, he became affiliated with Alpha Kappa Delta and Alpha Delta Mu.

His fiancée, Miss Malcolm, entered Oberlin college after her graduation from Quincy high school, where she has attained prominence in both scholastic and social fields, and served as chairman of the senior formal among other phases of school social life, and as hostess of her house formal this past year at Oberlin. She is a past member of the Order of Rainbow Girls, a Camp Fire leader, and in academic circles, has taken prominent part in affairs at Oberlin where she was recently voted membership in Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic fraternity.

Miss Malcolm will return to Oberlin in the autumn for her senior year at college, and the young people will defer their marriage until she has completed school. Mr. O'Brien's friends are hoping that their future plans embrace a return to Santa Ana. For the summer months, Mr. O'Brien will attend Harvard, devoting his attention especially to anthropology and to Spanish.

Presenting the program, of which the play was the principal feature, was a series of songs, readings and skits offered by a group of five young guests, presented by Mrs. Dixon. Those participating in this phase of the entertainment, which the audience found equally to its enjoyment, were the Misses Le Fay Morris, Dorothea Dixon, Marjorie Wonder, Virginia Inhoff and Virginia Pritchard.

Further entertainment was afforded members in the work of little Miss Ada May Adkins, whose song and reading were offered with a grace which made them the more effective. Performers were greeted by a large audience which proved most appreciative of the work of Mrs. Nettie Adkins in arranging the program.

Play, Songs, Readings Comprise Program of Fraternal Aid Folk

An original one-act play in which the characteristics of various members of the audience were cleverly parodied by the several characters proved the highlight of an unusually interesting program enjoyed by the members of the Santa Ana Fraternal Aid Union folk when their organization met in the Modern Woodman hall Thursday night. Mrs. Georgia Mills, who was prominent in the cast, was particularly admired in her role of "Uncle Mose," her lines and character work proving amusing in the extreme.

Supplementing the program, of which the play was the principal feature, was a series of songs, readings and skits offered by a group of five young guests, presented by Mrs. Dixon. Those participating in this phase of the entertainment, which the audience found equally to its enjoyment, were the Misses Le Fay Morris, Dorothea Dixon, Marjorie Wonder, Virginia Inhoff and Virginia Pritchard.

Service Club Members Join in Impromptu Program

When Mrs. Alice A. Yount, past department president of the Women's Relief Corps of the department of California and Nevada) entertained members of the 25 Year Service club Thursday afternoon in her beautiful home, 2453 Heliotrope drive, she was assisted in offering a charming hospitality by her three daughters, the Misses Harriet, Gussie and Patricia Yount.

It proved to be one of the best attended meetings of the year, and guests were warmly appreciative of the hospitality extended by Mrs. Yount and her daughters, and their thoughtfulness in garlanding the home with unusually beautiful flowers in honor of the occasion.

Mrs. Hannah Huntington, president, conducted the short business meeting during which cordial invitation was extended by Mrs. Annie Arnold for the Service club to meet in her home, 405 South Birch street, on August 4. It was during this interval that the purpose of the club was exemplified when a generous sum of money was placed in the hands of Mrs. Estelle Gray, W. R. C. president, to be used to bring comfort and happiness to others.

Mrs. Mary Birdsall was welcomed back to the club after her long absence due to serious illness, and Mrs. Eugenia Harvey, mother of Leonard Harvey, superintendent of mails in the Santa Ana post office, was extended good wishes for the trip upon which she will depart next week, to visit her brothers and sisters in the Hudson river valley, New York.

The program which followed was an extremely interesting one to which members contributed readings and reminiscences. Among the readings were "Do Something for Somebody" by Mrs. Rosa Diers; "Smiles" by Mrs. Estelle Gray; "The Philosopher" by Mrs. Viola Fipps; "The Sculptor" by Mrs. Martha Ritchey; "Life's Pathway" by Mrs. Sarah Alford; "Barbara Frietchie" by Mrs. Yount; "Too Much of Everything" by Mrs. Ella Wilson, and amusing parodies on "Mary Had a Little Lamb" by Mrs. Kate Hendricks.

Mrs. Dora Spangler, whose late husband was truly "The Village Blacksmith" in early days of Santa Ana, with his shop on Sycamore street where the big pepper trees stand just opposite the Salvation Army building, talked interestingly of early days here. Following this, Mrs. Mattie Culver, champion quilter of the club, since her quilting frames have not been empty for the past six years, told of some of her work, including 13 beautiful quilts which she had completed for one person alone. The unemployment situation was discussed and Mrs. Abbie Vandermast and Mrs. Mary Ramdell told of their efforts in helping meet the situation.

After taking part in a contest involving the names of Santa Ana streets, and drawing their "lucky stars" with fortunes for each, the guests enjoyed a refreshing tea menu served at one large and three small tables by their hostess and her daughters.

Present in addition to those named as having taken part in the informal program were Mesdames Elizabeth Birkhead, Emma Leiser, C. F. Millen, Lottie Rittenhouse, Smith, Frances Dresser and Fanny Cunningham.

Mrs. O. M. Robbins and Miss Robbins Will Go to Pasadena

Announcement that Mrs. O. M. Robbins and Miss Doris Robbins of 930 Lacy street, had definitely decided to go to South Pasadena to make their home, at least temporarily, came as a complete surprise to the host of friends who have taken for granted that the family home would always remain as an integral part of the city.

But arrangements have been completed whereby Mr. and Mrs. William H. DeWolfe of 2425 Poinsettia street, will take possession of the Robbins home, and Mrs. Robbins and Miss Robbins will leave early Monday morning for the foothill city where they will be pleasantly located at 1827 Ramona avenue.

The past few days have been marked by a succession of informal dinner parties as close friends have hastened to extend farewell courtesies to the well-known mother and daughter, who have been prominent in church, social and club activities of the city.

Last night Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Stephenson were dinner hosts in their home, 1522 North Broadway, entertaining Mrs. Robbins, Miss Robbins, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund West, Mrs. Robert Northcross, Mr. and Mrs. M. Burr Wellington and Messrs. Terry Stephenson Jr., Wylie Carlyle and Robert Northcross.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Reinhaus were others who made the departing mother and daughter their honor guests at a beautifully appointed family dinner in their home, 809 West Fourth street, and Miss Lena Thomas assembled a friendly group for a pretty dinner in the Doris Kathryn Tea Shoppe.

In the latter party, covers were laid for Miss Thomas, the hostess; Mrs. Robbins, Miss Robbins, Mrs. Marshall Northcross, Mrs. Ernest Crozier Phillips, Mrs. M. Burr Wellington, Mrs. Robert Northcross and Miss Agnes Todd Miller.

During the recent visit in this city of Mrs. John Bartlow (Edna Beatty) of New Orleans, and her sister, Mrs. Lee Mahoney (Irene Beatty) of Las Vegas, Nev., who were guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. Burr Wellington on Lemon Heights, Mr. and Mrs. Wellington entertained at dinner, complimenting not only their house-guests, but Mrs. Robbins and Miss Robbins, the group forming a coterie whose friendship had its beginning a number of years ago when the Beatty family was prominent in Santa Ana affairs.

In leaving Santa Ana, the mother and daughter will sever bonds uniting them to various enterprises. Mrs. Robbins is a past worthy matron of Hermosa chapter O. E. S. and is prominent in Elbel society. Miss Robbins, among other affiliations, was first president of the Santa Ana Business and Professional Women's club, an organization in which she is maintaining membership with the expectation of returning for occasional meetings even though she and her mother may make their permanent home elsewhere.

Intimate Club Devotes Evening to Usual Bridge Session

Assembling the members of her two-table bridge club in her home at 823 South Van Ness avenue, Mrs. John Criddle was hostess Thursday evening at one of the informal but delightful meetings of this little group of close friends.

Distribution of clever tally cards was immediately followed by the usual sessions of bridge, in which Mrs. James A. Merigold ran up the highest score. Two prizes were awarded, the second one going to Mrs. Rex Barker, meeting with the group as a special guest.

To conclude her hospitality, Mrs. Criddle served an inviting refreshment course at the close of the evening, for which the two tables were arranged daintily with fresh linens and attractive appointments.

In the group in addition to the hostess were Mrs. John Woolhomes, Mrs. Elwayne ("Em") Wilcox, Mrs. Golden Beckley, Mrs. Ralph Cole, Mrs. Edward Ellis, Mrs. James Merigold, and the one guest, Mrs. Rex Barker.

Swimming was of course, the favorite diversion although various beach games were enjoyed from time to time. The vacationers motored to the Spanish Village on Saturday, and after the happy week-end there, ended the celebration by going to Huntington Beach on the night of the Fourth, to see the fireworks display before seeking their individual homes.

The group consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Whittier and daughter, Helen, Mr. and Mrs. Warner Bledsoe, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Stovall Jr. and daughter Barbara, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kenyon and daughter, Wilma, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Parnell, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Parnell and sons, Herschel and Bill, Mr. and Mrs. Bailey Whittier and son Reginald, Miss Ruby Doss, Miss Aletha Sears and Edward Bristow.

Girl Scout Activities Include Happy Day At Newport

Summer vacation days have seemed to bring an increased interest to Girl Scouts of the city in the varied program of Scout activities and duties, and there has been no cessation of the regular meetings in the Girl Scout headquarters placed at their disposal by Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Horton, 702 South Broadway.

The girls are working on their second class tests, according to their leader, Mrs. R. R. Russick, and are finding much of interest in all preparations for passing such tests.

This week was enlivened by the young people by an outing at Newport Beach, enjoyed by 23 Girl Scouts and a number of mothers and Legion auxiliary members. Motoring down in the early forenoon hours, the young people entered with enthusiasm into the program of swimming and beach sports, so strenuous that this in turn fanned enthusiasm for the day's picnic dinner served at mid-day.

Girl Scouts in the party were the Misses Ida Bergeretter, Josephine Butler, Eileen Gowdy, Lucille Griggs, Helen Juden, Lura May Kent, Ruth Jane Mathews, Marjorie McCune, Jane Nalle, Irene Noble, Jeanne Russick, Margaret Rustan, Virginia Waters, Margaret Glickner, Leone Lindgard, Marguerite McCarthy, Agnes McDougall, Jeanne McClay, Judith Ruley, Charlotte Mock, Frances W., Jeanne McAuley and Mildred Kemper.

In addition there were several small brothers and sisters to enjoy the outing, Carlo Joe Mock, Rose Anne Griggs, "Gene Griggs" and Bobby Russick, and the group of women who served as "chauffeurs" and aides to Mrs. R. R. Russick, leader, and who were Mrs. Carl Mock, Mrs. Hazel Turtan, Mrs. Al Miller, Mrs. Agnes Stuble, Mrs. A. B. Lindgard, Mrs. A. W. Rustan, Mrs. Butler and Mrs. Dorothy Griggs.

Future meetings of the Girl Scouts which are being anticipated with much interest include that of Monday afternoon at 2:30 in the Horton home (headquarters) when a member of the city fire department will talk on fire prevention, first aid treatment, etc.

On Thursday, July 21, Mrs. Russick is taking 16 girls of the Cardinal patrol on a several days' camping trip in Trabuco canyon, where the Marshall Harbors and the E. F. Mathews cabins will be placed at their disposal. On Wednesday, July 27, the Scouts will entertain their mothers and interested friends at a tea and program in the gardens of the Horton home, and are making plans for a quite charming hospitality, with various committees already functioning busily. The Legion auxiliary is furthering these plans, and the occasion will celebrate the presentation by the auxiliary of a handsome silk flag to the Girl Scout troop.

Several of the Scouts already have made application for the annual Girl Scout camp at Ro-Ki-Li on August 8 to 15, a county-wide affair.

MUSIC LITERATURE ART

THURLOW LIEURANCE

BY RUTH ANDREWS

Many of our foremost American composers have found their happiest inspiration in the utilization of native Indian folk-themes in their music, and in elaborating upon the wealth of quaint tribal songs and melodies which still abound among the remnants of a fast-fading, vanquished race whose song now hears its close.

Among our composers of recent years who have responded to the charm of the native Indian music by spending countless hours in collecting and recording the characteristic themes of the various tribes which are still to be found in different sections of the country, we may note such outstanding musicians as Charles Wakefield Cadman, Arthur Farwell, Homer Gurnea, and even the earlier Edward McDowell and Henry Gilbert. To all of these creative artists, and to many lesser musicians, the study of Indian folk-lore has ever proved a fresh and fertile source of inspiration.

Perhaps the real secret for the lure of these plaintive themes lies in their primitive origin, their nearness to Nature's heart, their ever-present mystery of birth and death that is Nature's own. Surely it is this kinship with the out-of-doors and the secret hidden forces latent in the soil and the elements that has stirred so many of our best composers in a creative endeavor to interpret for us the soul of the Indian, immortalizing in music the romance of the past.

Thurlow Lieurance, one of our lesser contemporary composers, who, nevertheless, is perhaps better known to the average music lover than are some of his more distinguished fellow writers, is one of our present day composers who owes his wide popularity almost entirely to this same utilization of Indian folk themes in his numerous graceful works.

Lieurance is best known everywhere for his truly beautiful and melodious arrangement of "By the Waters of Minnetonka," a typical Indian love song, which seems to have touched an equally responsive chord in the hearts of young and old. He has to his credit, however, more than 100 musical compositions, all based on themes personally recorded by him during periods spent in company with various American Indian tribes, and painstakingly gathered in the face of many hardships and dangers.

Lieurance, the son of a prominent physician, is a native of the Middle West, having spent his childhood in Oskaloosa, Iowa, where he was born March 21, 1878. At 20 years of age his natural musical ability enabled him to se-ceive an appointment as chief musician of the Twenty-second Kansas Infantry, during the Spanish-American war, in which he served his country.

Receiving his discharge and being mustered out at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, Lieurance went to the College of Music for a short time, spending his entire savings of $400 earned during months of army service in an effort to secure a musical education.

Leaving the college, Lieurance studied for a time with Herman Belstedt, a prominent cornetist and band director, who imparted to him some of the principles of theory, harmony, orchestration and arranging. In order to obtain some knowledge of opera and its production, Lieurance then sang for a time in the chorus of the Castle Square Opera company, later spending an interval in teaching piano and voice in small middle western towns.

Lieurance's life has not been without obstacles, for while in his early twenties, he met with an injury in Neosho Falls, Kansas, which resulted in his being permanently crippled. However, undeterred in his musical ambitions by this trick of fate, Lieurance spent a lengthy convalescence in composing, having numerous works accepted for publication.

Later, while visiting in Montana among the Indians of the Flathead and Cheyenne reservations, Lieurance first came in contact with the customs and folk lore of this interesting race. He watched their tribal ceremonies, and hearing their native songs in all their freshness and primitive beauty, realized at once what a wealth of musical inspiration was his for the taking.

At once, Lieurance began to transcribe these themes, and to record hundreds of them upon phonograph records, devoting many months to this intriguing work, making records from the melodies of more than 30 different North American Indian tribes.

Through Lieurance's generosity, many of these records have since been made available for the Smithsonian Institution and the New Mexico museum, as well as being contributed to various foreign museums.

During more recent years, Lieurance has engaged in lecture-recital tours of America, on which he has been accompanied by his wife, Edna Woolley Lieurance, a singer of talent and personality, who has done a great deal to popularize his gifted husband's musical compositions, and to further his chosen life work.

at her home in Vichy. Mme. Pons will return to the United States in October, in order to open a concert tour which will include a series of California engagements.

Powell Receives Commission
The National Federation of Music Clubs has commissioned John Powell, one of our most prominent contemporary American composers, to write a symphonic work upon Anglo-Saxon folk themes. The award is $1000. The contemplated work is to be performed during the season of 1933-34, and will be sponsored by the Federation.

Honor Contemporary Composer
Daniel Gregory Mason, professor of music at Columbia University, has just been awarded a grant by the Oberlin Trust of the Carl Schurz Memorial Foundation to go to Austria this summer, in order to prepare a book on Brahms, which will be published next year, in connection with the one-hundredth anniversary of the birth of the great composer, which will be celebrated at that time.

Friml Composes Opera
Rudolph Friml, one of the most popular of our contemporary composers, is now at work upon the music for a light opera, in which the noted baritone and film-star, Lawrence Tibbett, will have the leading role.

Poets of Southern California

By MISS BEULAH MAY

CARLYLE F. MACINTYRE
Mr. MacIntyre writes: "My life so far? I am halfway through. I have mispent it grandly in studying, teaching and scribbling. . . . amusing myself. My father was a falcon, my mother a cloud nymph. The following noble lines are from 'Variations on a Musical Theme.'"

VARIATIONS ON A THEME

By Carlyle F. MacIntyre

The wind swirls down the mountain in the fall,
The rabbits make their middens in the brush,
The buckwheat burns brown holes in Autumn's pall.

The spilt of fruit lies rotting on the ground,
Grass dies, and birds fly chirping towards the south.
The hills are sleeping like a weary hound.

This is the end of summer, and what good is it?
Were the vast striving and the brooded hope?
Earth bends her head and takes the hangman's hood.

Blest who comes home at evening to find
Sole in the black pot and his little son,
And smokes his pipe with nothing on his mind.

Nor prods to plumb the how and if and why,
But rocks the brat to sleep and what good is it?
While calm stars keep their watch in the cold sky.

III
The grape leaves wither in the autumn wind,
Mist wraps a gray caul snugly round the sun,
And the old men sit and backwards roll their mind.

Now evil angels go about the earth
With snares to catch unwary souls in sin;
And toes pound against the doors of birth.

Life thrills her futile shuttle, and the Fates
Sharpen bronze shears . . . while on their horny hands
The sextons spit and open loamy gates.

Still the wind blows, the sun climbs the drab sky,
Then cold stars spell our story tersely, thus:
You are born, you suck, you suffer, and you die.

And melancholy sands slide down the throat
Of Time and make no stay; and no god comes
With the iron sword of ultimate antidote.

BOOK REVIEWS

By MARY BURKE KING

The Quick and the Dead by Claire Spencer, published by Harrison Smith.

A depressing story is "The Quick and the Dead."

A boy, Peter, with great artistic gift is ruined because he was an unwanted child whom the mother did not love even after he arrived. But the depression is leavened with some amusing character studies. Bessie La Croix, Peter's mother, was a lady's maid before she married Jean La Croix who was a chef. There is notable mental limitation in both individuals. And added to that was a complete incompatibility of temperament which is interesting.

"Our hero was born into a strange world," says the author, "a world that for the first years of his life was to be dominated by two people of such different qualities, his father bubbling over with love and an uncritical admiration for anything he did or thought, and his mother forever in retreat from him, holding cold impatient hands between herself and himself to ward off any little movement of affection he might impulsively offer to her, and avoiding with her eyes as much she could what she considered his imperfections, for she knew that her eyes held nothing but contempt."

"One might think of course, that since his mother was what she was, he would naturally have rushed out to his father for affection, but in his father there was nothing for a child to hang onto; he was too affectionate, too benevolent, too full of praise, too flattering altogether; . . . for a little boy it was overpowering; it was like asking for a drink and having Niagara come roaring into your cup. He grew frightened eventually, and timorous of starting this hurricane of expression that he knew would descend on him if he showed the need for it."

The time came when mother love was offered to Peter by a woman of his own age who loved him selflessly. She was ready to forgive him everything, to sacrifice for his outpouring of expression in his work. Her only concern was for him. But when that love came to him he had already been so conditioned that he could not accept the bounty that it was.

Beer and Skittles by Helen Joseph and Mary Margaret McBride, published by G. P. Putnam's Sons.

"Beer and Skittles" is a chatty sort of guide book which intermingles the practical and the amusing, so that by judicious skipping of certain mundane details of rates and such, the stay at home may have an interesting jaunt.

The "Paris Is a Woman's Town" by the same authors was reviewed here a year or so ago and would figure as importantly as a toothbrush on a list of that famous book by this reviewer.

Germany is making earnest and zealous effort to attract tourists to that country. Some of the printed brochures furnished by the German government bureau with this responsibility are very impressive. The following are typical quotations of hotel accommodations is more than suggestive of the commercial.

The book exceeds the compass of most travel books for when one has finished one feels that one knows the German people. It is good to make their acquaintance again for as these authors say they are very like us.

Quite the most amusing chapter in the book is the visit of the authors to a nudist colony. But then almost anyone could be amusing over so outlandish an experience. It is the experience itself which sets one apart a bit.

Joe Bailey, by Sam Hanna Acheson, published by the Macmillan Company.

This being a year in which we are politically minded the biography of a powerful Democrat, Congressman and Senator from Texas, is timely. The ones to whom it will have the greatest appeal are of course the sons and daughters of Texas, who in this book contact a lot of Texas history.

For 20 years after 1890, Bailey was a Democratic leader, and as such played a prominent part in the legislation of the period, and in the controversies that centered about McKinley and the Spanish-American War, Roosevelt, and Wilson's presidential candidacy. Bailey was gifted with a marvellously melodious speaking voice and nothing but great personal charm can explain his many triumphs in the legislative arena.

He was an impressive parliamentarian. The authors say graphically enough: "Even as some babes lisp the catechism when they begin to talk," Bailey seemed to have been weaned on the rules of order; he considered himself a parliamentarian of the first order, and what is more, he was adept in making his way through the mazes of parliamentary procedure."

Here and there in the book is delightful humor born of logic, as for example Bailey's remarks about the unfortunate address of Ambassador Bayard when the latter said: "The President stands in the midst of a strong, self-confident, and oftentimes violent people—men who seek to have their own way. It takes a real man to govern the people of the United States."

Said the Honorable Mr. Bailey: "Mr. Bayard was extolling the President and in order to exalt the magistrate, he defamed the people. He sought to prove Mr. Cleveland's greatness by the fact that he governs a people who are difficult to govern. . . . But, Sir, the characterization of our people as violent is had said. 'The President stands in the midst of a strong, self-confident, and oftentimes violent people—men who seek to have their own way. It takes a real man to govern the people of the United States.'"

The book is an excellent, well-documented picture of the political issues and contests of the period. Texas figures largely as a matter of course, but the story loses nothing by the localization. The biography extends into the Ferguson careers. "Joe Bailey" is good "colateral" reading for students of government and politics.

COLLECTED POEMS OF ELLINOR WYLLIE, edited by William Rose Benet, published by Alfred A. Knopf.

It may be that the poems of Ellinor Wyllie will, by comparison, only serve to make some other poet clearer, possibly because those others go to greater, more universal depths in the human heart. But the poems of Ellinor Wyllie are always lovely, exquisite.

This book of collected poems is a tonic to be placed on the library shelf and taken in refreshing doses when one doesn't know what will serve just such a purpose. The first poem in the book expounds the idea that beauty is just itself:

"Say not of Beauty she is good, or ought but beautiful. . . . O, she is neither good nor bad, but innocent and wild."

In this volume of collected poems are included the four volumes of poems already published separately and a section of 47 poems that have not appeared in book form, 20 having never before been printed. William Rose Benet has prepared a foreword which gives a glimpse of a distinguished and lovely figure. He dwells on the enchanting variety of this poet's nature.

There is an infinite variety in both the thought and the form of the poems. There are many little papers marking favorite things in the book and I'm glad I don't have to select a favorite. But "The Prinkin' Liddle" will always be associated with Ellinor Wyllie in my mind and the two lines:

"He who never gave his heart
Will never give his pity."

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Cherry Dixon, pretty 19-year-old daughter of wealthy parents, falls in love with Dan, a poor, awkward boy. She quarrels with her father about Dan, leaves home and taking advantage of Leap Year, asks Dan to marry her. They are married for the first time. Cherry finds out what it means to be a wife. Her struggles with housework are discouraging. Dixie Shannon, movie critic of the New York Herald Tribune, tells us that she has something for her. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXIII

Dan grinned down at her. "I'll give you three guesses," he announced. "What do you think I have?"

"Is it something for me?" Cherry asked.

"Yes."

"But I haven't the slightest idea!"

"You can guess, can't you?" Dan insisted. "What would you think it's likely to be—a Rolls-Royce or the crown jewels of England or—"

A faint cry, plaintive and high-pitched, interrupted him. It came from Dan's coat pocket. It was repeated, this time louder. An unmistakably kittenish "Meow!"

"A kitten! Oh, let me see it!" Cherry cried. "Where did you get it, Dan? Oh, you little darling, you!"

This last was addressed to the wriggling ball of gray fur that had emerged from Dan's pocket. The kitten, balancing in Dan's two hands, looked about on this new world in which it found itself and emitted another "Meow!"

"Cutie, isn't it?" Phillips asked. "Cherry had taken the kitten and was holding it nestled against her cheek. The warm, soft fur touched her cheek. The girl's eyes were bright as a child's."

"It's adorable!" she told him. "Did you know I've always wanted a kitten? That's another thing I could never have at home. But where did you get it? Can we really keep it?"

"We can if you want to. I stopped at the drug store on the corner for cigars. There were four of these little fellows there with their mother. One was black and the others were sort of gray striped. I thought this one was the cutest and the man said he'd be glad to give it to us. It's not quite a month old yet."

The kitten seemed eminently contented with its perch on Cherry's shoulder. It was purring now—a miniature sing-song that could barely be heard.

"Do you hear it?" Cherry demanded. "It's singing. Oh, of course we'll keep it! And it was sweet of you to bring it, Dan." She began to laugh. The kitten had raised one velvety paw and with experimental gestures was investigating Cherry's ear.

"Put it down," Dan suggested.

"Let's see what it thinks of the place."

Cherry set the kitten on the floor.

It was completely gray except for a white line down the center of its forehead, rounding out in a symmetrical arc of white about its nose and mouth. As though aware of their scrutiny the little animal backed slowly away from Cherry and Dan, stopped and gazed up at them.

"Well, I'll be darned!" laughed rode to Twelfth street. Lawrence's flower shop in the corner of the Wellington Hotel was where Cherry had always bought flowers. She reached the shop and paused before the window display.

Tall, long-stemmed roses and exotic lilies filled three huge vases that stood on black velvet. They were beautiful roses. They must cost a great deal—

Turning, the girl walked down the street. There were other flower shops. She would find one less expensive than Lawrence's. Cherry tramped for half an hour and finally was satisfied. She came to a small shop flaunting price marks all over its windows. "Roses 75 cents," "Lilies 50 cents a bunch," "Iris 75 cents."

Cherry entered and paid 50 cents for a large bunch of lilies.

"We don't deliver, Ma'am," the clerk told her. "That's extra. I'll cost 25 cents to have them delivered."

Cherry paid the extra quarter. She wrote Miss Jamieson's name on a white card and the address of the hospital. On a separate card to be enclosed with the flowers she wrote, "Best Wishes from a Friend."

There was less than $2 in her purse (car fare had taken 10 cents) when she left the shop.

"That means we'll have eggs again for dinner," Cherry told herself. "Dan won't mind when he knows why it happened. Wonder whether he'd like 'em fried or in an omelet?"

She was considering this problem and had almost decided to undertake a young man coming toward her. Sherry stopped. There was a stationery store ahead. In another moment she would have entered it but the young man called out her name.

"Well, Cherry!" he exclaimed. "This is certainly luck. Haven't you seen you for days?"

"I—I've been shopping," she told him. "It's nice to see you again."

"You don't say that any too convincingly," Max Pearson laughed, "but I've got a treat for you really mean it come and have lunch with me."

All of the circus folks laughed loud, and gathered in a watching crowd, to see the little Tynmies crawl out of the great big net.

One fellow shouted, "My, oh my, you dropped down right out of the sky. I've seen a lot of strange things, but that is the strangest yet."

The Tynmies all sat still a while and then each one began to smile. "Gee, we were lucky," Scouty said. "We dodged an awful mess."

"'Twas well that net was right down here, or we'd have wrecked ourselves. I fear. From now on we had better stay upon the ground, I guess."

"Oh, no!" snapped Windy. "That's no fun! Just think of all the things we've done, and yet we all are here. I'll take all of the rides I can."

"But come, let's get out of this net. All of the folks are cheering yet. We'll have to find the owner of the balloon and pay the man."

The owner heard the last remark and shouted, "Oh, you had your lark and now you can forget it. I have monstrous balloons anore."

"I'll keep the basket of the one in which you Tynmies had your fun, but I don't want the gas bag. I won't use it any more."

When they were safely on the ground and lots of people gathered 'round, wee Duncy told them 'bout the bird that made the gas bag break.

Then all the Tynmies ran into the tent, for something else to do. Soon Windy said, "I'll make you laugh until your sides will ache. That kicking mule, right over there, will kick a big ball in the air. Just watch him when I toss the ball right at his two back feet."

My goodness, 'twas a sight to see! The mule kept kicking constantly, and as the ball flew through the air, wee Scouty said, "That's neat!"

JOBLESS WILL SELL TICKETS IN FULLERTON

FULLERTON, July 9.—Plans for putting women in charge of the canning of fruits and vegetables for the commissary of the Workers' relief and for raising funds to reimburse the treasury through assisting in ticket sales at the Fox Fullerton theater were made when a large group of members of the legion met at the headquarters on Santa Fe avenue last night.

Mrs. Bert Cloer and Mrs. Charlie Wilson are in charge of canning and workers will try to get peaches and tomatoes to can immediately. Five men went to the south part of the county today to assist in harvesting a cabbage field, and will haul the cabbage to the Fullerton headquarters, where it will be used by those patronizing the commissary or will be made into kraut.

The theater will show features from July 18 to 21, giving workers a percentage on the tickets sold. Frank Casie, president of the league, said he plans to place from 50 to 60 salesmen in the field. Plans of applicants and the 300 pints of jam have been stored, the commissary has been rearranged, and many other improvements have been made at headquarters, reports showed.

An average of 40 persons received supplies each day, many taking supplies to homes, where several persons live.

A committee comprising Casie, Tom Davis, Charlie Clerk, Carl Ivie and John Thomas, was appointed to meet with the centralization committee at Santa Ana at 2 p. m. July 15.

PROGRESS CAN'T FAIL

Morning dispatches from San Francisco heralded a grand washing of hands over the Tehachapi farm for women. The hurdle which Atty. Gen. Webb's opinion has reinforced rests on the omission of the word "punish" from the bill providing for the women's farm. Since that word was omitted, says Atty. Gen. Webb, the institution by terms of the act which created it can not be considered a prison in any sense, nor those sent there considered as prisoners, nor confinement there regarded as punishment for offenses committed.

As a matter of fact, the word "punish" was designedly omitted, because the intelligent women back of this enterprise recognized that the purpose of the institution was for the protection of society and the restoration of its inmates; that punishment was not its purpose. By design or accident it is made to appear a very dark hour for the farm project. Its very friends are reported discouraged and pictured as washing their hands of the institution.

It is ironical to anyone who gives a thought to the history of progress. There are temporary setbacks, there are standstills, there are hurdles, but there is never permanent failure in the line of progress. Particularly not in a case where an institution has as strong backing as this one.

The women of the state have been strongly back of the Tehachapi farm for women. That is significant not alone because the women are natural humanitarians, but more particularly because women are familiar with correct and progressive and up-to-date ideas of correction. Bringing up children forces relationship between mother love and wisdom which necessitates more knowledge and study of constructive and destructive methods than is believed possible by anyone who has not been through the experience, or close to the experience. "What every mother knows" is the reason for the women's support of the Tehachapi so-called experiment.

The Tehachapi farm may be an experiment for California; it is not an experiment to people who have studied the problem of handling women prisoners. There are such women's institutions in many other states.

The ruling yesterday only marked a temporary setback such as are to be expected in the course of the inauguration of any progressive project. Such obstructions are inevitable, for however slowly society may move forward, it does advance. People who are marching at the head of the line of progress, in order to remain in their positions must have courage, steadfastness, determination, and diplomacy. Such people do not wash their hands of undertakings at repeated setbacks. They will be found at the head of the line, battling for their principles, methods, and institutions when success is achieved. People who are opposed to particular progressive steps sometimes like to make it appear that everyone has abandoned the project when such is not the case. An institution which has been planned and fought for and lived for as has the Tehachapi farm is never abandoned by its friends.

REPARATIONS AGREEMENTS

One does not need to believe in panaceas to feel confident that the reparations agreement at Lausanne will have a good effect on the sorry condition of the world. Nor does one need to go into the as yet obscure details of the agreement to experience such confidence.

At the close of the original Versailles conference economists made doleful predictions regarding the effect of the huge reparations payments on the finances of the conqueror nations. It is painful to remember how right the unprejudiced economists were.

Many lessons have been learned from the attempt to make Germany pay so huge a burden of the war. Probably the most important is the inevitable linking together of the nations. One nation, however the others may feel, cannot be isolated and punished as it was attempted to do with Germany, without a harmful reaction upon the other nations in their trade relationships.

Regardless of agreement or disagreement with that apparent truth, however, the unsettled condition regarding reparations has had a subtle and demoralizing effect on international trade relationships. Of this burden, the agreement at Lausanne yesterday has relieved the world. The agreement was as inevitable as the sun's rising, and such being the case, if for no other reason, one can but rejoice that it has been accomplished.

GAS TAX APPORTIONMENT IN FRESNO COUNTY

In these other counties where the cities have been discriminated against, as they have in Orange county, in the use of the gas tax, there is a changed attitude and a changing attitude on the part of the supervisors. It is especially noted in Fresno county. The cities of Fresno county have been treated by the supervisors very much as the cities in Orange county have been by the supervisors in this county, and the declaration of the city commissioners of Fresno is that the abolition of the county road tax would throw $100,000 more taxes on the city.

The figures in respect to Anaheim, Fullerton and Santa Ana are very pertinent just at this time. On the basis of the Federal law now that provides one cent per gallon for Federal tax, Santa Ana would be paying to the county fund $100,000 a year, $200,000 to the state for highways, and $100,000 to the Federal government. In other words, Santa Ana will be paying $400,000 in gasoline taxes, more than she pays for her entire city government. And while the law permits the Board of Supervisors to use a portion of this for the cities, Santa Ana has practically received nothing.

In Anaheim and Fullerton, because their populations are of about equal amount, each of these cities pays $37,000 to the county tax, $74,000 to the state, and $37,000 hereafter to the Federal government, or $148,000 on gas taxes alone, and they have received practically nothing from it.

Orange will be paying to the county $27,200 this coming year, $54,400 to the state, $27,200 to the Federal government, or a total of $108,800.

These amounts are of course estimates, which are based upon population and the actual amounts paid for the past fiscal year.

It is rather remarkable that political activities have been so carried on in the past that the city authorities have not been making demands on behalf of the taxpayers of the cities. The heavy burdens now placed upon them are bringing this thing out in bold relief.

We are impressed that things will have to be different.

A Paris composer has been charged with assaulting his publisher with a roll of his music. Just being sure that his songs would make a hit.

WAITING FOR TRAINS NO LONGER A BORE

Who of us have not sat in waiting rooms of railroad stations awaiting the arrival of trains with that weary and dreary passing of time when minutes were almost as interminable as hours? We had read all the papers. The bustle of the crowd was interesting for a time, but soon began to pall. Only the keenest student of human nature could find employment for his wits while drearily waiting.

Well, all that is of the past. In most of the important cities, the waiting rooms of railroad stations have been equipped with moving pictures and talkies, in which for a very small fee, not much more than the price of a Saturday Evening Post, and a much less price than a magazine of more ambitious contents, he can spend an enjoyable and profitable hour or half hour. In fact, at times it is so enjoyable that one wishes the announcer would proclaim through the loud speaker that the train was a half hour later.

This is another sample of American enterprise. In these days, when the chase of the elusive dollar requires every conceivable device to catch it, there are some compensations. When business is good, the customer does not receive the same consideration as he does in these days when everyone has to scratch for the limited amount of business there is.

Cutting Cost of Education

The Pomona Progress-Bulletin

The action of the Pomona board of education in reducing the school budget nearly 15 per cent below last year's, is in line with reductions being made by the state department of education in all its branches, judging by the recent statements of members of the state board of education and State Superintendent Kersey.

The state board of education was in session last week at Humboldt, and one of the important matters for consideration at this meeting was the discontinuance of the state teachers college, which is located in that community. The state superintendent recommended at this meeting a cut in the budget of the state department of education of 12 per cent. The University of California, it was also announced, is planning a cut of 15 per cent. From 19 per cent to 15 per cent, apparently, is the range of cuts being made in all the departments of the state government, following the universal demand for a program of strict economy.

The heavy financial burden on the taxpayers, increased by mounting costs of education in the state, is being given serious consideration by all concerned and it is reasonable to suppose that radical changes will be submitted to the next legislature. The state board of education is seriously considering the discontinuance of the teachers college at Humboldt, as one of its many moves to reduce the cost of public education. It is generally considered that a mistake was made when this college was located at Humboldt, a community with a population of only 1700. Eureka would have been a much better location, as it is the center of population of three counties in the northwest part of the state. Last year the enrollment at this college was only 325, and the budget for the year was $260,000, a per capita cost of $800 according to E. P. Clark, editor of the Riverside Press, who is a member of the state board of education and is in attendance at the session at Humboldt.

This is the highest per capita cost of any institution for public education in the state. Mr. Clark doubts whether the institution will be discontinued, but predicts that its capital expenditures will be restricted, and its program limited to the training of elementary teachers for this remote section of the state.

More Truth Than Poetry

WHO WINS?

The locust is profoundly dense.
He has no wit nor common sense;
No single grain
Nor mote of brain
Has he with which to reason.
Yet, unrestricted does he eat
The farmer's oats and rye and wheat
As well as hops
And other crops
For season after season.

The rat is not profoundly wise
Nor is he wide between the eyes,
And yet he steals
His daily meals
And makes it his vocation
To dodge all forms of honest toil,
And while he's doing it to toll
Each crafty plan
Devised by man—
The Master of Creation.

We members of the human kind
Boast much of our superior mind;
Our brains we deem
For plan and scheme
And worldly power fit us.
We brag of how we rule the earth
Of this rotund and rolling earth,
But don't forget
That still we let
The bugs and rats outwit us.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

HOPE FROM THE PAST

I am not among those who think all of the current economic dislocation is due to the aftermath of the war, but it is obvious that much of it is.

Following every great war a phase of materialism has been gone through.

And this post-war materialism has consistently come from two things:

(1) The widespread necessity for material replacements.
(2) The widespread pessimism resulting from the moral letdown from the excitement of war.

"War, followed by material prosperity, a craze for sudden wealth, overdone and leading to distress, has happened more than once," President Lowell of Harvard said the other day. "Two hundred years ago the wars of Marlborough were followed by wild speculation both in England and France. This was the time of the South Sea Bubble in London and Law's Mississippi company in Paris. Fabulous fortunes were made, and then came the crash, spreading ruin and suffering on both sides of the Channel."

We are now obviously repeating history.

Our post-war speculative mania was born, in part, of the fact that we were the post-war workshop in which so much of the goods of material replacement needed after the war were made. With business booming for this special need, fortunes were easy to make, and the speculative fever easy to catch.

And the cynicism that marked our boom phase has its precedent in history.

"A relative of mine," said Dr. Lowell, "enough older to remember the sentiments of young men at the close of the Civil war, in speaking of that time related how they believed that after the slaves had been freed, all the other evils of society would one by one be attacked and abolished. Yet one of the outstanding events of the period was the shameful corruption of the Tweed ring in New York made possible by popular insatiable. At the same time there was great business activity, inflation and, in 1873, a collapse not unlike that which afflicts us today."

We should be cheered by these precedents.

We should be ashamed that we did not learn from them. But, as I review them, my courage stiffens and my belief is strengthened that we shall emerge from this phase stronger and cleaner than before.

STAND UP

Children should be trained to stand up. If their bodies are well nourished and in good health this ought to be easy. But we have to begin early. Give the child a standard of good posture by standing and sitting well yourself. We are far too careless about this.

Of course the old ramrod style was too much. It is just as bad to slouch about the world with a ramrod back as it is to slouch through it with a monkey stop. Stand up, but be easy about it. Keep your eyes level, your shoulders where they belong, think yourself upright and you will be all right.

Teach a child to give himself a good stretch every morning. A good stretch that makes him open his mouth wide and yawn is a very good start for the day's posture. Whenever you see him stooping, slouching, pushing out in front, holding himself tensely, take his attention from himself for a moment, talk to him a bit, suggest by your own attitude that he correct his own, and he will.

Little children follow suggestion readily. They imitate the postures of those about them. They fall into bad habits if they have poor examples. Their physical condition influences their posture. If their bodies are ailing in any way it shows first in their carriage. Adenoids, enlarged tonsils, will give a child bad posture. When you see that a child's shoulder blades are sticking out and that his front is out of line, have his nose and throat examined and correct any trouble he may have there.

Poor vision affects a child's posture. He will bend over in order to see. His chest will be in and his shoulders will be rounded and he will have a queer walk. Correct the defects in his vision and his posture will change and his walk improve. Good health is imperative. After that good posture follows easily with a little attention.

Often people ask for exercises for the child who has bad posture. I would not advise exercise for any child save under the direction of the specialist. If hands corrective exercises he needs expert care. Along with the exercises he must have treatment and both should come from the specialist.

Dancing improves the carriage and posture of those who enjoy it. The best kind of dancing for little children, and it is good for all of them, is the rhythms of the kindergarten and the interpretive dances of the studios. These add to the child's power of control, to his ease and grace, to his understanding of beautiful movements.

Good posture, poise, grace and ease are gifts which prove more than useful to their possessors. They give power to the presence. They help to express a fine personality. It takes so little of our time and attention and it means so much to the children that we ought to pay more heed to it than we do. (Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing stamped, addressed envelope for reply.) (Copyright, 1932, The Bell Synd., Inc.)
